VOL XVI. NO. 174. TOLEDO, OHIO, TUESDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 17, 1891. LAST EDITION. TWO CENTS

Give Ear to the plain facts about Pearline, and then give Pearline a chance to prove them, by giving it a fair trial. Nothing else will give the same result. It washes safely, as well as surely; it cleans carefully, as well as easily. It is as cheap as soap and better. Anything that can be washed, can be washed best with Pearline. It lightens labor and does lightning work. As nearly as we can figure, about eight millions of women use it. Do you? You will sooner or later.

Beware of imitations. 237 JAMES PYLE, N.Y.

BLAZE IN ST. LOUIS.

A Disastrous Conflagration Now Raging.

A Million Dollars' Damage Has Been Done,

And the Flames Are Still Beyond Control,

A High Wind Adding to the Destruction.

Several Persons Injured by Jumping From the Windows of the Various Buildings to the Stony Pavements of the Streets.

St. Louis, Nov. 17.—The "Famous" dry goods, clothing, and boot and shoe house, and Sonnenfeld's millinery house, and Penny & Gentle's dry goods house on North Broadway, between Franklin avenue and Morgan street, burned at 4 o'clock this morning. The loss will foot up over $1,000,000.

8:30 a. m.—A high wind from the west prevails. The fire has now spread to the east side of Broadway. In this block is situated the large dry goods store of D. Crawford & Co. and the Freeman house. Unless favorable changes take place soon there will be no hope of saving this block.

Several people have been seriously injured by jumping from windows. The loss on this block, if consumed, will aggregate over $1,000,000.

In Detail.

St. Louis, Nov. 17.—At 4:30 o'clock this morning fire was discovered in the millinery store of Penny & Gentles, corner of Franklin avenue and Broadway. A second and third alarm was sounded, and the almost complete force of the fire department responded.

The flames spread at a rapid rate. A strong west wind was blowing at the time and made the work of the firemen perilous and for a time fruitless.

Within half an hour the large dry goods store of Sonnenfeld's, which adjoins Penney & Gentles, was afire and the flames were working their way to the "Famous" mammoth shoe house on the corner of Broadway and Morgan street.

Four firemen were caught in the "Famous" building and were overcome by smoke. They were rescued by their companions. The weather was bitterly cold and the firemen, hose wagon and all matter not in the immediate vicinity of the flames, was covered with ice.

At 6 o'clock the entire block on the west side of Broadway between Franklin avenue and Morgan street was a mass of flames which were being fanned by a strong wind and being carried across the street threatened destruction to the immense dry goods house of D. Crawford & Co., and the furniture store of Kopplemann & Co.

The fire raged for two hours and it was only by the almost superhuman work of the firemen that a tremendous conflagration was averted.

During one of the many collapses of burning floors in the different buildings two firemen named Lynch and and Simon were caught by falling timbers and badly hurt.

Watchman at Sonnenfeld's is missing and it is feared he may be in the ruins.

Across from Penny & Gentle's, on Franklin avenue were the establishments of Grierson & Co., hatters; Ed Bohl, and a drug store on the corner of Broadway and Franklin avenue. These places were badly damaged by smoke and water.

The whole block on the east side of Broadway between Franklin avenue and Morgan street, including the establishments of D. Crawford & Co., was damaged by fire and smoke. It took hard and active work to prevent the flames from going down Morgan street to Fourth, as all the buildings were old and inflammable. By 8 o'clock the block of buildings which yesterday were filled with holiday goods was a mass of charred timbers and the main part of the walls had fallen.

The stores of Sonnenfeld, Penny & Gentles and the Famous shoe house (the largest shoe house in the west) were wiped out by the flames. On Franklin avenue, opposite Penny & Gentle's establishment, was a block of retail stores. These were seriously damaged. The occupants were O. W. Heyer, dry goods; Grierson & Co., hatters; Ed F. Bohl, hatter; P. H. Coulkamp & Co., clothiers; St. Louis Tailoring company; C. Beemer & Co., clothing; Chas. T. Lange, clothing; L. Volking, boots an shoes; George R. Stamper, dry goods; Franklin saloon and Halser & Co., dry goods. At 10 o'clock the fire was under control and no further damage feared. It is impossible to obtain a list of losses at this hour, but a close estimate places the loss of the Famous as follows: On stock, $600,000; insurance, $400,000; Penny & Gentle's loss, $175,000; insurance, $100,000; Sonnenfeld's loss, $125,000; insurance, $75,000.

Golvin had Blaine arrested for horse-stealing. He had his preliminary trial before Justice Rogers and was bound over to next term of court under $1,000 bond, which he failed to furnish and was sent to the county jail.

WILL GO OVER TO SPRING.

Wauseon, Nov. 17.—(Special)—The race of 100 miles in 10 hours which was to take place near Morenci will probably never come off. The articles stipulated that Downer was to set the day, but as the roads are very bad he never will name it, and it will probably go over till spring.

GALES ON THE LAKES.

Many Vessels Reported in Distress.

The R. Hallaran Has a Tough Encounter.

The Montcalm Piled Up On the Rocks Below Port Dover—Wet Wheat—The Rescued Schooner Baldwin.

Erie, Pa., Nov. 17.—The gale which blew off the south shore of lake Erie Sunday rolled up one of the biggest seas ever seen on the Canadian shore by vessel men.

The large freighter, Chemung, flying a signal of distress, was sighted off Erie by Capt. Griffin, of the steamer Parnell, who picked up the Chemung at 7 o'clock about 25 miles below this port.

The Chemung had lost her rudder and shoe while trying to take the crew off the water-logged schooner Montcalm. The Parnell towed the big steamer under the point, and the tug W. L. Scott brought her in.

Capt. Jack Robinson, of the Chemung, states that about midnight he sighted the schooner Montcalm off Long Point in a sinking condition. He bore down upon the vessel and attempted to pass a line, but failed. Capt. Charles H. Blakeslee, master of the Montcalm, begged Capt. Robinson not to desert him, as the schooner's canvas and even her masts were gone, and the vessel was half full of water.

By the time the Chemung rounded to the Montcalm's distress torch went out of sight, and Capt. Robinson believed the craft lost, but a telegram from Selkirk, Ont., says that the heavy south wind drove the schooner over to the Canadian shore, and she ran high on a rock near Selkirk, 12 miles east of Port Dover.

One of the crew managed to get ashore, and notified the life saving crew, who took off Capt. Blakeslee, the female cook and five seamen.

The Montcalm is a total loss. She had iron ore for Tonawanda. She was owned by the Rochester Transportation company, was built in 1867, measured 282 tons, and rated B1, with a valuation of $4,500, being insured for $3,500 through Smith, Davis & Co.

At the Lower End.

Buffalo, Nov. 17.—The schooner R. Hallaran, wheat laden from Toledo, arrived leaking considerably. She had part of her stem and bulwarks washed away.

The survey on the Susan E. Peck was begun to-day. Joseph Oldham, of Cleveland, and Dan McLeod represented the underwriters, and Edward Gaskin the owner. The steamer is in bad shape.

The propeller Glasgow had 7,000 bushels of wheat partly wet. A survey showed the damage to have been done by the smashing of the boiler house by the heavy sea off Saginaw bay. The loss falls on the owners of the wheat.

It is reported that a collision occurred off Dunkirk between the Folsom tow, bound up, and the Empire tow, bound down. The Muir, of the latter tow, lost her deck load of lumber. The Empire tow is at Tonawanda.

The sailors' union this afternoon raised wages to $3.50.

The Story of the Baldwin.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—Reports received by President Albert Booth, of the Albert Booth Packing company, from the crews of two fish tugs at Manistique, are to the effect that the Anderson and Maxwell had on last Thursday given up their day's fishing, a loss of about $8,000, to rescue the schooner H. P. Baldwin, which had been abandoned by her crew.

They towed her to Manistique. There they found the crew, who, it is said, did not even thank them, but ordered them off the boat. The Baldwin is owned by L. P. and J. A. Smith, of Cleveland, and is valued at $15,000, her cargo of iron ore being worth $5,000 more.

Both are said to have been fully insured. In ordinary cases on the lakes the two tugs would be given a salvage claim of $3,000 or $4,000.

PLENTY OF HEIRS.

A Fortune That Will Not Have to Go Begging for Takers.

Norwalk, O., Nov. 17.—Several Norwalk people are interested in a Pennsylvania estate. Jerome Timmons, of Deerfield, Mich., one of the heirs, was here Friday and has gone on to Pennsylvania to establish the claim. The story as given out is as follows:

Last summer a very wealthy old bachelor named Timmons died in a Pennsylvania town, and after his death a gentleman was sent to the old home of the deceased in Ireland to look up his relatives. It was there learned that the deceased had a brother Jerome living in Deerfield, Mich., and from him it was learned that he also had relatives in Norwalk.

The Norwalk relatives are Mrs. Brady, of West Main street, Mrs. Edward Welch, Mrs. McNally and the children of the late Luke Timmons.

The deceased was a full brother of Jerome and Luke Timmons and Mrs. Brady, and a half brother of Mrs. Welch and Mrs. McNally. Mrs. Mary Brady, one of the heirs to the estate, is the mother of Mrs. Patrick Brady, of Cherry street, Toledo; Hon. Peter Brady, of Bellevue, and Deputy Sheriff Jas. T. Brady, of Cleveland.

DOG IN THE MANGER.

Foraker's Friends Are Spoiling Any Chance

He May Have Ever Had of Becoming Senator.

They Threaten to Block All Partisan Legislation In the Event of Sherman Being Re-Elected—Pointed Words by the Secretary of the Treasury.

Columbus, Nov. 17.—(Special)—The announcement of Foster in favor of Senator Sherman has caused the Forakerites here to make threats that no reorganization, gerrymander or other political measure will be passed by the legislature if their candidate is defeated for senator.

Investigation fails to find any state official in favor of Foraker and nearly all say that he should be thrown down hard, so that for years to come a division in the party will be averted.

Foster for Sherman.

Washington, Nov. 17.—(Special)—Ohio republicans here celebrated the fact last night that Ohio had not been taken away from them by the advocates of tariff reform. Secretary Foster was the principal speaker.

In closing Mr. Foster alluded to the senatorial contest in Ohio. He eulogized in the warmest terms all the party leaders.

"Sherman, Foraker, and the others without an exception," he said, "did their utmost from the beginning to the end to achieve success. Not one among them carried an assassin's knife in his hand."

Mr. Foster says that while in no way disparaging the ability, the qualifications, or the republicanism of any man, he believed it would be for the best interest of the great state of Ohio, and of the whole country, to return to his seat "that foremost man in the United States senate, John Sherman."

His utterance was greeted with vociferous applause. The fact that everybody seemed to join heartily in it indicates the feeling among the Ohio republicans in Washington. From first to last Mr. Foster had his audience with him, and every point in his speech was greeted with emphatic demonstrations of approval.

WILL REMAIN IN COLUMBUS.

Governor Campbell to Locate in the Capital.

Columbus, O., Nov. 17.—There has been considerable speculation since the election as to where Gov. Campbell will locate after he hands over the affairs of the executive department to Governor lect McKinley. The prevalent opinion has been that he will return to his old home at Hamilton, Butler county, and practice law.

The announcement that he will probably remain in Columbus, therefore, will be a general surprise.

The governor is the principal stockholder in the Roberts Manufacturing company, which has experimental works in this city. The company has been engaged during the past two years in developing several patent car heating and coupling appliances, and is now about ready to begin the manufacture of the articles.

It comes from a reliable source that Mr. Calvin S. Brice is also financially interested in the company and is to furnish some capital to establish a large manufactory. It is now reported from an authentic source that the governor will remain in Columbus and look after his interests in the Roberts Manufacturing company.

ADVICE FROM ABROAD.

London, Nov. 17.—In an article published in the Times comment is made with regard to the activity of the Chicago officials toward the anarchists. It attributes this activity to the approaching of the time for the opening of the world's fair, and predicts that any anarchist or other lawless person who should be guilty of murder within the next two months will be summarily punished by death.

FITZGERALD HAS HOPES

That His Neck May Be Saved From the Scaffold.

There Is Little Reason to Doubt, However, That He Will Die on Friday Morning—The Governor Refuses to Interfere.

Columbus, O., Nov. 17.—Fitzgerald, the condemned murderer, was to-day in excellent spirits and talked quite freely with those about him, including the guards, Stansell and Johnson.

On Saturday and Saturday night he was in intense mental agony. Nothing had been heard from his attorney at a late hour to-day, consequently the sudden revival of his spirits cannot be accounted for save and except on the theory that he earnestly believes the supreme court will hold out its hand and snatch him from the gallows before the early hours next Friday morning.

He spent the day writing letters and talking to the inmates of the death cage. During the morning the bedding in the cells was searched and new bed clothes given the men.

Granted a Respite.

Later.—The governor this morning gave Fitzgerald, the Youngstown murderer, who was to hang next Thursday, a respite until December 18, so the supreme court can pass on the merits of his case. The circuit court of Mahoning county refused him a new trial some time ago.

THE LOTTERY LAW.

Washington, Nov. 17.—Argument was begun in the United States supreme court yesterday in the anti-lottery cases in which the constitutionality of the recent anti-lottery law is involved. These suits are those brought by the United States against John N. Rapier, publisher of the Mobile Register, and George W. Dupree, publisher of the New Orleans States for violation of the law prohibiting the sending through the mail of newspapers containing lottery advertisements.

IN TOO FAST A CLASS.

Two Detroit Young Men Get Distanced,

And Are Now Behind the Bars of the Jail.

Spending Twice As Much As They Earned Caused Suspicion to Rest on Them and They Were Caught Stealing From the Bank.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 17.—Angus D. Keith, receiving teller of the Peninsular Savings bank, and Anthony F. Henke, his assistant, were arrested yesterday on the charge of embezzlement, and both have confessed.

Keith is 32 years old and has a wife and child at Grosse Isle, and Henke is 19 years old.

During last August a package of money containing $1,000 was missed and has never been recovered.

Other amounts of money have been stolen from time to time in such a skillful way as to baffle the detectives who were employed upon the case. In the aggregate they amount to several thousand dollars.

There is nothing even yet directly associating the two tellers with these crimes, although it is believed that they stole the money. The two young men, as well as all of the bank's employes, have been shadowed by detectives for some time.

It was found that Keith lived very high at home for one whose income was but $1,000 per year. He came from Bay City, Mich., 18 months ago, highly recommended by the banks there, and he is well connected by marriage. The attempt to keep up a social position is what ruined him.

Henke entered the bank as messenger boy four years ago, and has lately acquired very fast habits. The crime which the two have confessed is that of stealing money from the "late deposits," those which come in after 3 p. m.

Several hundred dollars are taken in this way each day. They avoided detection several weeks by making good from the "late deposits" of one day what they had taken on the previous day.

Young Henke was arrested Saturday night, but it was kept secret, and Keith came down to the bank yesterday morning unsuspicious of the discovery that his cash account was short.

When confronted with the evidence by Cashier Joseph B. Moore, late republican candidate for state treasurer, Keith acknowledged, but manifested the utmost indifference. Both of the young men are in jail.

DEPARTMENT FEES.

Collections by the Secretary of State and Superintendent of Insurance.

Columbus, O., Nov. 17.—The secretary of state has completed his report for the fourth quarter of the fiscal year ending November 15, 1891. The amount of fees collected for the last quarter were $16,988.50, and of this sum $1,840 was retained in the hands of the secretary of state, having been paid under protest pending a decision on the Massie law. The balance of $15,148 was covered into the treasury. The total collections in the department, mostly from incorporated fees, for the year amounted to $105,475.47.

Hon. W. H. Kinder, superintendent of insurance, paid into the treasury yesterday the sum of $2,307.95, fees collected for the quarter ending November 15.

The total amount of fees that passed from the insurance department into the state treasury from November 16, 1890, to November 15, 1891, are $53,287.33. This is the largest amount ever covered into the treasury in any one year in the history of the department.

THEY BEAT AN INDIAN

Out of Two Big Bars of Pure Brass,

But Not Until An Old Farmer Had Planked Down Six Thousand Hard Earned Dollars.

Rutland, Vt., Nov. 17.—Three young men recently appeared in Hampden, N. Y., and took the parts of a young man in search of his uncle, a government assayer and an Indian. As a result John O'Donald, a rich farmer, is $6,000 out of pocket.

The young man in search of his uncle came first. His name was also John O'Donald. During life in the west he said he had befriended an Indian. This Indian possessed a valuable secret—the knowledge of making untold gold.

He had some of this gold with him in the form of solid bars, and would sell this and the secret of the mine. Now that he found that his uncle was dead, there was no one to whom he could apply for money unless perhaps Mr. O'Donald would help him.

They drove to Pine Hill, a few miles from the village, and there met a man who was rigged out as an Indian. The Indian produced the bars, and agreed to let them take one to have it tested.

They went to a hotel and found the other conspirator, who was registered at one of the hotels under the name of O'Brien. After the name was written "United States assayer, Philadelphia mint." O'Brien reported that the gold was the finest he ever saw; that two bars like the one he examined would be worth $30,000, and that it must come from a very rich mine.

Then O'Donald and the young man went back to see the Indian, and after much haggling he agreed to sell the bars and the secret of the mine for $6,000, and the deal was closed. Next morning he got a letter which surprised him. It was to this effect:

"The Indian we beat out of his gold was no Indian. Those gold bars are brass, and you had better keep quiet or people will call you the ——est old fool in Washington county."

HIDING THE TRUTH.

Fonseca Industriously Engaged at Present

In Sending Out False Statements From Brazil.

The Situation Grows Darker Each Hour,

And the Nationalists Continue to Gain Power.

The Dictator is Losing Ground in Many Points of the Republic, But His Greatest Opposition Comes From Rio Grande do Sul.

London, Nov. 17.—The situation of affairs in Brazil shows no change, according to dispatches received in this city today, and the opposition to Marshal Da Fonseca's dictatorship continues to grow in strength as exclusively announced in the United Press dispatches.

Port Alegro, the capital of the revolted province of Rio Grande do Sul, is now in the hands of the nationalist party and preparations for its defense are being actively made. On all sides, in Rio Grande do Sul, in spite of the so-called officials' statements in favor of the dictator, sent out by the old agencies saying that there was no trouble, the people are rising in support of the national party.

The United Press is in a position to state that, outside of the somewhat colored utterances of representatives of London houses who have interest in "bearing" Brazilian securities, the statements cabled from here have been in the main entirely correct, exclusive and ahead of all other agencies or correspondents. The United Press alone of all the agencies, recognized the importance of the movement in Brazil and the United Press alone has given the real facts about the Brazilian revolution.

In support of these statements the correspondent of the London Times at Santiago de Chili, cables to-day that the Chilian minister at Buenos Ayres has telegraphed the Chilian government saying that the opposition junta, or provisional government of the national party (Dr. Assize, Gen. Ossario and Barros Cassul) now has dominant powers in the province of Rio Grande do Sul and that it has been able, in about a week's time, to arm and equip a force of 30,000 riflemen.

In artillery, it is added, the junta is weak, having as yet been able to obtain possession of only four field guns. This branch of the service, however, will shortly, it is said, be reinforced.

According to the Times' correspondent the junta's navy only consists of Alagos, a monitor; but it is known here that it is probably an error, as the naval party is said to have several gunboats in addition to the monitor at its disposal.

The junta in addition to its work in placing quite a respectable army in the field, is taking steps in the province of Rio Grande do Sul and in other provinces, to bring about an election for a president in place of Da Fonseca, whom the junta declares to have lost all rights to that position by his unconstitutional action in dissolving congress and in assuming the powers of a dictator.

Almost daily bodies of deserters from the dictator's army are joining the ranks of the junta's army and both sides are preparing for a desperate struggle.

Da Fonseca is said to be expecting soon to be in a position to move upon Rio Grande do Sul with an army of 60,000 men while leaving his rear and base of operations protected by a strong reserve force of troops.

If this should be the case there will be some terrible fighting and much loss of life. It now appears that the revolutionary movement has been brewing for some time past and that Da Fonseca's action in dissolving congress and assuming the authority of dictator was the only occasion which brought matters to a head. For a long time there has been a strong and growing sentiment in Rio Grande do Sul and elsewhere against the alleged mismanagement of the national finances and other matters.

A BRAVE SIX-YEAR-OLD.

He Rescues His Baby Sister From Death.

A Cool Head That Many Men of Riper Years Would Be Glad to Have on Their Shoulders.

Philadelphia, Nov. 17.—Little 6-year-old Thomas Mooney, of this city, can boast of the proud distinction of being the youngest life-saver in the country.

His mother, who lives at No. 1 Elliott avenue, near Fifth and Vine streets, put her three children, Katie, aged 8 years, Thomas, aged 6, and baby Bertie, aged 4 years, all safely in bed, and after fondly kissing them, started down the narrow stairway, lamp in hand, last night to go to a neighbor's. She did not notice some clothing hanging over the hand rail on the second floor, which, sweeping across the top of the lamp chimney, caught a little spark of fire.

She was returning to her house some time later, when a neighbor came running toward her, saying that the children were screaming. She rushed into the house. A heavy cloud of smoke poured out as she opened the door. Terror-stricken, she made for the stairs, seizing a wet towel, which she put over her mouth as she ran, but her services were not needed to save the children, for before she could reach the stair door the older girl, Katie, came running down, followed by little Thomas, the baby girl held close in his arms and his head nestled close in its neck, the white night-gowns of both blackened by smoke.

The little bare feet of the child rescuer were slightly scorched by the flames which by this time had broken into a fierce fire, fanned by the draught in the stairway.

The mother seized the two children in her arms and carried them into a nearby house, while two neighbors, who had rushed in, with the assistance of two Fourth district police officers threw the burning clothing from the window.

Little Thomas said that he woke up and smelled the smoke and got out of bed to find where it came from. He saw the burning heap of clothing in the hallway and ran for a basin of water, which he threw on it. He got another basinful, but, finding that it did not put out the fire, wakened the other children, who still lay quietly in bed, and told the elder to run while he carried the baby.

PREVENTION IS BETTER

Than cure, and those who are subject to rheumatism can prevent attacks by keeping the blood pure and free from the acid which causes the disease. For this purpose Hood's Sarsaparilla is used by thousands with great success. It is the best blood purifier.

Constipation is caused by loss of the peristaltic action of the bowels. Hood's Pills restore this action and invigorate the liver.

WAYS AND MEANS.

One Set of City Bonds Sold Last Night.

Trouble In Providing Money to Run the City—An Effort to Get the Bridges in Better Shape.

The council committee on ways and means met in Auditor Walker's office last night, and among other business connected with the city's finances was the sale of three lots of improvement bonds, for Maumee avenue, bridges and sewer 39. The Second National bank, of this city, bid par and accrued interest for the $15,872.71 of Maumee avenue bonds, and as they were the only bidders, the securities were awarded to them.

N. W. Harris & Co., of Chicago, bid $14,867 for $15,000 of bridge bonds, but as their proposal was below par it was not considered. There were no bids for $1,650 of sewer bonds, and the auditor was instructed to sell these two lots of bonds at private sale for par and accrued interest.

Auditor Walker called the attention of the committee to the fact that at the end of November, bills and salaries in amount exceeding $20,000 would fall due and there is no money to pay them. He presented the following statement showing what departments this money was due:

General fund	$15,000
Bridge fund	1,700
General sewers	855
Sidewalk inspector	150
Corporation prison	510
Sanitary	1,900
Public library	450
Total	$20,565

The committee then approved an ordinance for the issue of $20,600 worth of certificates of indebtedness to pay these accounts.

Harbor Master Skeldon was on hand again, and insisted that something be done regarding the old wooden bridge on St. Clair street over the creek. This bridge, he stated, is entirely unsafe for heavy electric cars, and there is great danger of their breaking through the bridge. He stated that he had notified the street car company of this, but the cars still run, and he thought the council should find some way to provide money to repair this bridge. He said it could be done for $1,500.

The committee realized the necessity for some action, but did not see their way clear until finally a motion was passed to have plans prepared for a new bridge.

This brought on a general discussion of the miserable bridges crossing the creek, and several members of the committee were in favor of shutting the cars off the St. Clair street bridge until it can be repaired.

The Lafayette street bridge, which has been closed to the public all summer, also came in for a share of the discussion. Capt. Skeldon stated that some time ago the bridge committee had instructed him to go ahead and build a wooden approach to this bridge at a cost not to exceed $500, but as the money was not on hand to do it, the city solicitor had warned him against making the repairs.

The ways and means committee finally instructed him not to pay any attention to this but to go ahead with the work and they promised to get the money somehow before the bill came in. Auditor Walker warned them that the proceedings were illegal, but as the approach is an absolute necessity, they paid no attention to him.

THEY SHOT IT OUT.

Several Men Filled Full of Bullets in a Fight.

Great Falls, Mont., Nov. 17.—A serious shooting affray took place here Sunday night, by which one man will die and three others were wounded.

An excursion train was run from Helena and here to Neihart, celebrating the opening of a new railroad. On the return trip several drunken rows occurred. In one Chief of Police Treat, of this city, separated the rowdies and slapped one named Jacob Harris, alias Jew Jake, a gambler of Helena, and put him off the car.

When the train stopped at this city Harris approached Treat and fired three shots at him, mortally wounding him. Treat fired two shots at Harris, breaking his leg. Joe Lessard, a prominent mining man, was shot in the face. Stray bullets wounded two others.

MEMORIES.

My soul flies back to other days,
A distant shore, another clime,
And glimpses bright of boyhood ways
Comes glimmering through the mist of time.
Again I see a vision bland,
My native isle, each sylvan scene
Of river fair and mountains grand
And sigh for things that might have been.

The youthful friends I loved so well
From me hath passed in life away,
Yet still fond memory doth recall
Each face as if but yesterday;
Forgotten I, perchance, by all,
And yet this vision comes between
The living thoughts the loved recall
And sighing says it might have been.

A wanderer in the strangers' land,
A wayward fate, a lonely day,
I meet no more that youthful band
No loving mate to cheer life's way.
Ah! friends proved false, are false to me,
Now gazing back through time's dark screen,
The loved, the lost once more I see
And breath the word it might have been.

Farewell those days, pure joys farewell,
The friends I loved, the friends I knew;
My heart's affection fondly dwell
With them as fresh as falling dew;
The memory of that radiant past
O'er age shall fling its golden sheen,
But whilst life's current here doth last,
I'll mourn the things that might have been.

WANT NO SETTLEMENT.

Canadians Blocking the Bering Sea Case.

A Decision in Favor of the United States,

Would Shut Off a Fruitful Source of Employment From the Poachers—Reasons Why the Case May Be Prolonged.

Washington, Nov. 17.—The Post says that it has high official authority for the statement that in the "inner circles" the impression prevails that there will not be a speedy settlement of the Bering sea controversy, and for these reasons:

"Broadly stated, it is not believed that Great Britain desires so speedily to reach a seetlement. Great Britain believes that any fair interpretation of the points in dispute will be favorable to the United States.

"While to the great mass of Englishmen such a conclusion would be received with passive indifference, a directly contrary effect would follow in the Dominion of Canada, and especially in British Columbia.

"With a brutal disregard of all interests except their own, the Canadians insist upon their right to poach in the waters of Bering sea, and do not think it a crime to raid the islands themselves in search of plunder.

"Under these circumstances any agreement that will shut the poachers out would be followed by a howl of indignation from one extremity of the Dominion to the other.

"If the contention be not settled by spring, a new modus vivendi will be again agreed to. The past season has demonstrated the impossibility of effectually policing the sea, inasmuch as the poachers are said to have captured upward of 40,000 seals during the months of June and July and August.

"It is true that this number is smaller than formerly, but it is still considerable. If the ponchers can do as well next year, and they may do better, the opportunity is one not to be despised.

"At all events it is better to get 40,000 skins than none at all, as would be the case if the contention were settled in our favor, leaving us at liberty to treat trespassers in future as pirates. It would keep the Canadians in good humor for another year, and in diplomacy a gain of one year's time is an advantage of no little moment."

CASE OF LOU OW BEW.

Decision Rendered by Chief Justice Fuller Yesterday.

Washington, Nov. 17.—Chief Justice Fuller delivered an opinion of the United States supreme court to-day in the case Lou Ow Bew, a Chinese citizen, who resided in the United States for 17 years and was refused readmittance to this country on his return from a temporary visit to China. Lou Ow Bew is an importer and resided in Oregon.

Before going to China he secured proof of his residence here and presented the papers certifying this to the collector at San Francisco on his arrival from China and was refused admission on the ground that he had no certificate of the Chinese government certifying his American residence.

The case has an important bearing on the recent law establishing circuit courts of appeals, in that it came to the supreme court on an appeal from the decision of the lower court that tried the case, for the identification of the case to the federal supreme court instead of to the California court of appeals to which it would ordinarily have gone.

In its decision the supreme court grants the writ of certiorari asked for bringing the case under its jurisdiction on the ground that it is of sufficient importance, involving as it does a new question under the Chinese exclusion act. The new question is presented in the fact that Lou Ow Bew is a merchant, the court having already decided the bearing of the bill so far as it pertains to Chinese laborers.

Miss S. Chattinger, 2521 Cherry St.

"My trouble began with what I supposed was ague, the bones throughout my entire body ached, my flesh seemed tender and sore to the touch, I had a headache nearly every day. I was always dull and drowsy. Then, though it was in the summer time, I would catch cold very easy, my nose would clog up, scales would form on both sides, completely filling the nasal passages. My eyes became weak and watery. The secretions from the head would drop into the throat, irritating it so as to keep me constantly hawking and spitting to keep it clear. In about three months time this condition of affairs had reached the lungs and stomach. I began to have annoying pains through the chest and back, and most peculiar sensations about the heart. For three months I coughed so hard that my throat and stomach were kept continually sore by the strain. I had no appetite and was fast losing flesh and strength, when I was induced to consult Drs. Copeland and Buffett. You can say for me that I cannot too highly recommend these specialists. They had an intelligent understanding of my case from the very start, one by one the symptoms began leaving me until to-day I am a well woman."

MOST PEOPLE

Know only a comparatively few things thoroughly—all else is more or less uncertain.

Take your own case. What do you know about CARPETS, for instance? Are you competent to detect poor materials, or imperfect weaving, or unreliable colorings, or old-style patterns?

No.

Then will it not be wisdom on your part to make your purchases of CARPETS where all these points are taken care of in your interest, and where you are protected, not only from direct misrepresentation, but from the results of your own inexperience?

That seems plain enough.

Just two things we promise every customer. They are these:

That every salesman shall tell the whole truth about every piece of goods offered for sale; that anything which proves imperfect, through the appearance of any hidden defect subsequent to purchase, shall be made right.

The name of our firm stands behind these two guarantees.

Very likely you are thinking of purchasing one or more CARPETS shortly. If so, consider what we have said.

LET THE WAR GO ON.

An Interesting Squabble By Two Republicans

To Secure a Seat in the American House of Lords.

Both Foraker and Sherman Are Confident That They Will Secure the Much Coveted Prize When the Legislature Meets

Washington, Nov. 17.—Ex-Gov. Foraker received a great many callers Sunday. He dined with Secretary Foster at the latter's residence.

Just now these two eminent republicans are enjoying a sort of Sicilian friendship. They treat each other with assiduous politeness and marked consideration, but each carries a keen-edged stiletto up his sleeve.

The subject of their conference was presumably the senatorship, but if Mr. Foster tried to convince the ex-governor that in trying to beat Sherman he was simply placing himself under the political pile driver he might just as well have employed his time in throwing toy torpedoes at granite walls.

The ex-governor returned as chipper and confident as ever. He is a good deal incensed at the article which appeared simultaneously in the Ohio State Journal and the Washington Post from the pen of Gen. Boynton, in which the latter attacks him severely.

In his reply he stated that while he deprecated the introduction of personalities into the contest, he thought he could afford to treat with contempt anything of that character from the man "who was too good in his own estimation to vote for James G. Blaine, especially when it came in a letter that commenced with the statement that if the Sherman men had known the Hamilton county delegation were favorable to me they would have defeated the ticket."

"I am sure," added the governor, "I need not be worried about the assaults from republicans who voted for Grover Cleveland against Blaine and who now advocate the cut throat rule or ruin policy proclaimed by Gen. Boynton."

The appearance on the scene of Joe Smith of the Urbana Citizen put more ginger into the interesting situation down here. Joseph rode up in the elevator with Gov. Foraker but they did not recognize each other. They stared at each other in a cold, clammy way but that was all. A six by six elevator is rather a small affair in which to coup up two men who would feel more comfortable if they could get at each other's throats.

A meeting between these two gentlemen in the open would be extremely interesting. Ten paces would be the proper distance. Smith hates Foraker, and perhaps there is no man in the country whom the ex-governor would like to see transported to Botany bay or some other remote corner of the earth more than Smith.

Joe Smith, too, is nursing a fresh grievance. His paper has been bought out over his head, or rather an option has been taken on it at a price far above what he could pay or what it is worth. Smith thinks there is no doubt that Foraker or Foraker's friends have taken this method of spiking his cannon in the present fight. Smith is here to see whether Secretary Foster will not attach him to the payrolls of this great and good government in the capacity of a special world's fair commissioner abroad.

Ex-Governor Foraker, it is believed, will not interpose an objection. In fact, if pressed, he would probably sign his indorsement for a trip through foreign lands at the government's expense in preference to having him in Ohio during the impending battle.

Mr. Smith, during the campaign, had especial charge of the legislative districts at the headquarters of the republican state committee in the interest of Senator Sherman, and has kept close tab on the situation since. Mr. Smith says that Foraker is absolutely not "in it."

"Sixty of the ninety-three men who will take part in the caucus," said he, "have publicly declared themselves, and of these forty-six have pronounced for Sherman, within one of a majority, and fourteen for Foraker. The other thirty-three feel their little brief show of authority or importance and are still weighing the matter in their ponderous intellects. There is no doubt of Sherman's election.

"As far as the politicians in Ohio are concerned there are a fair division, but when it comes to the solid business men, the bankers, the merchants, the manufacturers, etc., there is practical unanimity. They feel the republican victory would be dearly purchased in Ohio if Sherman should be supplanted by Foraker.

"The men who are taking an active interest in Sherman's re-election are men who do not usually bestir themselves in political matters, but their influence is potent and in a fight like this one of them carries more weight than a dozen politicians.

"Foraker says that when the caucus is held next January, Columbus will be filled with young men. I suppose he means Squire's 650 Foraker clubs. I agree with him that on that occasion, if he is still a candidate, there will be an outpouring of the republicans of the state such as has never before been witnessed, but it will be an outpouring of business men and they will be there for Sherman."

"Is it not possible that Secretary Foster will be a candidate?"

"No. I can say absolutely that he will under no circumstances be a candidate as long as Senator Sherman is in the field. Although he is for Sherman I do not think he will take an active part in the fight. He wants Ohio to send a Harrison delegation to the next convention and it would be bad policy for him to array the active hostility of the Foraker men against him. Were it not for that I think he would have been out in an interview for Sherman long ago."

"Where will McKinley stand?"

"He will hold himself aloof from this political fight as he has always done from others." Mr. Smith says he believes that Foraker will withdraw from the fight within two weeks, when it will appear that he has no show of success. Joseph may of course, be blinded by prejudice but then a blind hog occasionally finds an acorn. Mr. Smith says Gov. Foraker has been deceived by Mephistopheles Kurtz and his other fool friends, just as he was deceived by them in the ballot box forgery.

PARDONS GRANTED.

Washington, Nov. 17.—The president has granted pardons to George Seymour, of Colorado, convicted of larceny. To Wm. Hart, of West Virginia, convicted of violating the internal revenue laws; to George Wells, of California, convicted of violating the postal laws, and to Eugene Mize, of Arkansas, convicted of assault to kill.

HE'S ON THE PAY ROLL NOW.

Fostoria, O., Nov. 17.—T. D. Campbell, a prominent republican of this city, has been appointed special agent for the treasury department, with headquarters at Philadelphia. Mr. Campbell is a member of the drug firm of Campbell & Godfrey and a prominent citizen.

That tired, languid feeling and dull headache is very disagreeable. Take two of Carter's Little Liver Pills before retiring, and you will find relief. They never fail to do good.

BROKE HIS LEG.

Tiffin, O., Nov. 17.—(Special)—A team belonging to John Brown, a liveryman of this city, ran away last night near town and threw Geo. Spieiman, the driver, out, breaking his left leg below the knee.

To get relief from indigestion, biliousness, constipation or torpid liver without disturbing the stomach or purging the bowels, take a few doses of Carter's Little Liver Pills. They will please you.

FOUR OF A KIND.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 17.—Mrs. Edgar George, of Bunker Hill, Ind., has given birth to four fully developed girls. The father is a farmer.

Bowels irregular and constipated, resulting in piles, avoided by taking Simmons Liver Regulator.

Watches—chains—lockets, etc., Cawood.

THEOSOPHY.

Lecture at Memorial Hall Last Night by Mr. W. Q. Judge.

That Theosophy is a popular belief was manifested last evening at Memorial hall when Mr. W. Q. Judge addressed a large and intelligent audience on this subject. There was standing room only at the hall and although Mr. Judge lectured one hour, the only objection was that the lecture was not half long enough.

The speaker is exceedingly interesting and conveys his meaning to the listener in a clear and definite manner. He stated "what theosophy was not;" that it was not goodism, as some people had pleased to term it; "it was not Blavatsky-ism." "It is not a religion, but it is the underlying truth of all religion, but it is the underlying truth of ism, esorteric Buddhism and other religions being the same, namely—love." Mr. Judge spoke briefly of reincarnation, giving reasons for so doing.

Rev. A. G. Jennings introduced Mr. Judge and also expressed his ideas in regard to theosophy. The Theosophical society has now been in existence 15 years, having been founded in New York in November, 1875, with the following objects:

1. To form a nucleus of a universal brotherhood of humanity, without distinction of race, creed or color.

2. To promote the study of Aryan and other eastern literatures, religions, and sciences, and demonstrate the importance of that study.

To investigate unexplained laws of nature and the psychical powers latent in man.

The society appeals for support and encouragement to all who truly love their fellow-men and desire the eradication of the evils caused by the barriers raised by race, creed, or color, which have so long impeded human progress; to all scholars, to all sincere lovers of Truth, wheresoever it may be found, and to all philosophers, alike in the east and in the west; and lastly, to all who aspire to higher and better things than the mere pleasures and interests of a worldly life, and are prepared to make the sacrifices by which alone a knowledge of them can be attained.

Mr. Judge was a personal friend of Madam Blavatsky, and while he, like others, recognizes certain idiosyncrasies in regard to her, yet that she compelled admiration and loyalty is not to be doubted.

Mr. Judge left for Jamestown this morning and will go from there to New York after giving a lecture.

LAST DAY'S SESSION.

The Committee on Legislation and Its Work.

Proceedings of the Last Hours of the Convention—A Reunion at Walbridge Hall To-Night.

The concluding business before the Knights' convention yesterday afternoon was in the main routine work. Among matters of general interest was the indorsement by the Order of the co-operative mine near Evansville, Ind., run by miners who are Knights and trades unionists; and the adoption of resolutions presented by the state assembly of Colorado, through its representative, Mrs. Anna Steele, of Denver, that the Order should use its influence to raise the "age of consent" to 16 years.

Motions to remain in session until business was concluded and to hold an evening session were lost and the convention adjourned to this morning.

At the morning session the committee on legislation recommended the adoption of a resolution instructing the general executive board to endeavor to have enacted a law permitting the importation of dressed Morocco free of duty. This action was caused because of the position of the organized Morocco manufacturers prohibiting the organization of their employes.

The subject of a railroad commission for the purpose of investigating the validity of railroad grants and titles, particularly that of the New York Central railroad, was discussed at some length and resulted in a decision to appoint a committee of which the general master workman is to be chairman.

From the committee on appeals and grievances this morning came a report upon the extradition of James Hughes, master workman of N. T. A. 231, clothing cutters, by Gov. Pattison upon requisition from New York. The action of the governor of Pennsylvania was condemned by the convention, but the course to be pursued by the order in relation thereto was referred back to the general executive board, who are empowered to act in the case.

THANKS ARE EXTENDED

To the Good People of Toledo for Courtesies Shown.

At the session of the general assembly this morning the following resolutions reported by a committee were unanimously adopted. They speak for themselves:

Resolved, by the general assembly of the Knights of Labor in session in the city of Toledo, Ohio:

That we acknowledge with pleasure the courtesies and fraternal greeting extended to us by the officers and members of District Assembly 72, and the many acts of kindness which we have received from our brothers and co-workers in this vicinity.

That we appreciate the welcome accorded us by the municipal officers, and will ever bear in kindly remembrance the welcome given us by the citizens of this beautiful and progressing city.

That we acknowledge with pride and the highest gratification the uniform and characteristic fairness and courtesy of the honored and honorable press of this city in its records of and comments upon our proceedings, and recognize their just claim to the highest position in American journalism.

That it is only with the most intense feeling of commiseration we refer to the solitary exception of a sheet, the name and editor of which we refrain from mentioning out of a regard for the delicacy due to the chaste and refined sentiments of this community, which sheet has daily teemed with abuse of our order, its officers and members, and has singled out an amiable, devoted and accomplished lady as the victim of the spleen and venom of its unhappy editor, whose whole course, in assailing one of his mother's sex, has demonstrated the degradation consequent upon his vile reminiscences and the invincible powers of hereditary instincts.

SOCIAL REUNION.

The Delegates and City Knights Will Enjoy Themselves To-Night.

Whether the convention concludes its labors this afternoon or not, and it probably will, Walbridge hall will be used this evening for a social reunion. The city knights will furnish music for an informal dance, and the visitors will be given an opportunity to meet with resident knights and their friends once more before departing for their respective and widely scattered homes. The delegates are unanimously of opinion that they have never enjoyed themselves more, or been better treated, than in Toledo.

THE SONG OF THE PROLETAIRE.*

Dedicated to the Wage Workers of the World, by Tom O'Reilly.

Base oppressors! cease your slumbers,
Listen to a people's cry;
Hark? United, countless numbers,
Swell the peal of agony.
Lo from labor's sons and daughters,
In the depths of misery,
Like the sound of many waters
Comes the cry: "We will be free,"
Comes the cry: "We will be free,"
Comes the cry: "We will be free,"

Tyrants quail! dawn is breaking,
Dawn of freedom's glorious day
Marmon on his throne is quaking,
Iron bands are giving way.
Statecraft, kingcraft, black oppression
Cannot bear our scrutiny,
For we've learned the startling lesson,
That if we will, we can be free,
That if we will, we can be free,
That if we will, we can be free.

By our own, our children's charta,
By the fire within our veins,
By each truth-attesting martyr,
By our tears, our groans and pains,
By our rights by nature given,
By the voice of liberty,
We proclaim before high heaven,
That we will, we must be free,
That we will, we must be free,
That we will, we must be free,

Winds and waves, the tidings carry,
Electra, in your fiery car,
Winged with lightning, do not tarry,
Bear the news to lands afar.
Bid them sound the thrilling story,
Louder than the thunder's glee,
That a people ripe for glory,
Are determined to be free.
Are determined to be free.
Are determined to be free.

*This song has been sung for many years at the close of every general assembly of the Knights of Labor.

COURT LUCAS, A. O. F. of A.

Will hold a social session to-morrow (Wednesday) evening. All Foresters in good standing are invited to be present.

FOREIGNERS ALARMED.

Wild Stories of Anarchists Cabled Abroad.

Fears That the World's Fair May Be Injured.

Wales and His Chips and the Kaiser and His Whiskers May Be Scared Into Remaining at Home.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—If there are no real grounds for the anti-anarchist movement by Chicago's mayor that official is doing the world's fair and the city of which he is the chief executive very great and unnecessary harm.

While most of the heads of the foreign legation here are absent, the attaches in charge are thoroughly aroused. England, France, Germany, and Austria, with Mexico and the republics to the southward, are decidedly uneasy, and the attaches of these countries are being put to much exertion trying to find out just what the stories telegraphed from Chicago amount to.

In Europe great consequence is attached to official action. Hence the acts and statements of Mayor Washburne are being sent abroad by the wholesale as the best possible evidence of the condition of things.

Abroad, particularly so on the continent, the mayor of a municipality is strictly responsible to superior authority. So all Europe judges our country by the conditions of its own. The relations of the federal government to the states and city governments puzzle foreigners greatly. The representative of an imperial European sovereign said in speaking of this anarchist business in Chicago: "Our people were invited here to this exposition by your president. They do not know the local government of any city. They look to the national powers for safety for themselves and the protection of the exhibits." But we are told that it is doubtful if the United States could interfere until the city and state's effort to restore order were unavailing and the chief authority of the city of Chicago and the state it is in called upon the national government for protection. This is what I learn, at least. It is very perplexing and I do not know what to report to my government at home."

If the authorities of Chicago could make a statement to the public or express an opinion even to the director-general of the fair that there was no danger, the mischief that may ensue, if the wild tales of anarchist dangers are permitted to go uncontradicted, would at once be rendered harmless. It is hoped here by every friend of the great exposition that some official action will be taken without delay.

It was reported here to-day that, in view of possible injury to the fair from exaggerated or false statements, the president might order an investigation and the report be made at once, which, being promulgated, would give to foreign intending exhibitors the weight of his official assurance that the stories of anarchistic dangers were nothing but senseless exaggerations of a purely local difficulty of no particular significance or consequence.

SCRAP GLASS

How Good Use May be Made of It.

Toledo has a couple of glass factories, and there are some in the neighborhood, to the managers of which the following may be of interest:

French glass manufacturers have found out a new method of utilizing waste glass. Any fragments of the broken material, of various colors, are mixed together, after having been reduced to a suitable size and then placed in molds lined with silica, talc or some other resisting material, and fired—a coherent mass being thus produced, capable of being dressed and cut into blocks, which are, of course, irregularly colored, and these blocks may be used as artificial marble.

The blocks are usually rough on one side, owing probably to incomplete fusion, but this gives a surface which is admirably adapted for causing them—especially those of a slab-like form—to adhere to walls, aided by the addition of a little mortar. Fine decorative effects are by this means produced—designs in relief being obtainable by pressure while the block or slab is still plastic—and if a suitable mold be prepared with movable partions, then pieces of gless can be so arranged that, upon firing, a very attractive "stained-glass" window is produced, the necessity of using leading, as in the ordinary practice, being entirely obviated.

HEIRS TO A LEGACY.

Toledo People Interested in an Eastern Estate.

In a Norwalk special to the Bee printed elsewhere it will be seen that the family of Mrs. Mary Brady, of that town, has probably fallen heir to a comfortable eastern estate. The Mrs. Brady of Norwalk is mother of Mrs. Patrick Brady, of 614 Cherry street, this city, of Hon. Peter Brady, Bellevue, and Deputy Sheriff James T. Brady, of Cleveland.

It is understood from what can be gleaned from an agent who is now in Pennsylvania investigating the matter, that the estate is a very valuable one.

JAMES ROBERTS.

Jack McLaughlin, the Detective, Thinks There is a Scheme to Do Him Up.

Detective Jack McLaughlin, of the Pennsylvania railroad company, don't like it because James Roberts, the Columbus Grove suspect, has been arrested as a deserter from the United State army. "I began suit on his behalf for $50,000 damages, for false imprisonment, against the authorities down there," said Jack, "and this is only part of their scheme to do him up and get that case out of the way. I don't think they can hold him as a deserter, for various reasons, and they are only trying to clear themselves.

SAUSAGE MAKERS' STRIKE.

For Shorter Hours and Higher Wages—Union to Be Organized.

The sausage makers employed by Jacob Kurtz went on strike this morning for shorter hours and higher wages.

They demand the same hours and wages as are being paid by Folger, Meyers and others.

The sausage makers are at present unorganized, but to-day steps are being taken to form a union. A committee is at work with a petition asking buyers of sausage to stand by them until the strike is settled.

THE PANIC.

Vienna, Nov. 17.—The effects of the panic of Saturday, caused by the persistent utterances, since denied, attributed to the Emperor Francis Joseph, are still felt here. The fright was in some measure due to the loose comment, made recently upon Russia's present condition for an attack upon her by the dreibund in order to prevent Russia and France from completing their arrangement to take action in opposition to the dreibund.

DAMAGED BY STORM.

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 17.—There was a heavy wind here to-day, doing considerable damage. The frame building was blown down, but no lives were lost.

EVIDENCE OF A CRIME.

The Bones of Murdered Men Found by Workmen.

The Massacre of a Hunting Party by a Band of Sioux Near Pilot Mound Again Brought to Mind.

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 17.—The discovery of portions of a human skeleton among the buffalo bones that are piled near the railway station at Pilot Mound, Northwest Territories, brings to recollection a tragedy that occurred within a few miles of there 17 years ago, and of which event the human bones are believed to be a ghastly reminder.

Three Indians, two men and a lad, had their camp in the woods, two miles north of Pilot Mound, and had spent the fall hunting and trapping on the river and lake, obtaining a good supply of furs and game. The hunters were about to leave for a new district, and early one morning loaded their two carts and harnessed their horses, when they were suddenly confronted by seven armed Sioux, who had in some way discovered the smoke from the camp-fire.

For some years hostilities had ceased, and not expecting danger, the Indian hunters were off their guard and were taken completely by surprise, for it was evident that the Sioux contemplated murder and robbery, only hesitating lest other Indians should be in the vicinity.

One of the hunters, named Black-Nose, was a man of extraordinary shrewdness and activity and took in the situation at once, but pretending that he felt no suspicion or alarm he carelessly took up a kettle and advanced slowly towards a rivulet close by, as if to procure some water. One of the Sioux followed, with his gun, in readiness lest his intended victim should attempt to escape. When passing a clump of willow bushes, Black-Nose made a sudden bound behind the bushes and was off like an arrow. The Sioux fired, but the stems of the bushes turned the bullets aside, and the hunter continued on his way uninjured.

There was then a general discharge of guns. Some shots were fired at the escaping Indian, and other shots killed the boy and his father who remained at the camp. Black-Nose knew that his companions were murdered and that the whole band were after him, determined to destroy him lest he should carry intelligence of the attack. Being better acquainted with the country than the Sioux, and being exceedingly active, Black-Nose eluded his enemies by keeping in the thickest forests along the river, and crossing the Pembina somewhere near the foot of Swan lake, he made his way to the Hudson's Bay post at the Red river, about eight miles distant. Having been without food or shelter he was in an exhausted condition.

A strong party of half breeds and Indians, well armed, started out to pursue and punish the murderers, advancing as far as Calf mountain, when a heavy snow storm prevented further progress, and the pursuing party were forced to return. The Sioux captured the horses, guns, traps and furs of the murdered Indians, leaving the bodies of the slain to be devoured by wolves.

BUILDING TRADES COUNCIL

Making Arrangements for Enforcing Demands Next Spring—Some Grievances.

The building trades council met last evening and inaugurated a movement tending to strengthen and consolidate all the unions under its jurisdiction. The object is to so unite the organization that the demands, should any be made in the spring, will be granted.

It is believed now that no extra demands will be made next season, but that those suggested last spring shall be enforced.

The Carpenters have a grievance relative to the scale of wages. They claim that quite a number of carpenters are working for 18 cents and 20 cents, whereas the established rate is 22 1-2 cents and 25 cents.

The painters, too, have some complaint, but it is so trifling that it will be settled without any difficulty.

An attempt will be made to enforce the card system as far as possible. The labor trades of Toledo are in good shape, and will start the new year stronger than ever before.

PLANNING TO ESCAPE.

Almy Has Not Given Up All Hope of Getting Out of Jail.

Plymouth, N. H., Nov. 17.—Cunning as a fox, slippery as an eel, slimy as a snake, Frank C. Almy, the murderer of Christie Warden, has a head chock full of schemes.

Not daring to face a jury of 12 men, honest and true, he prudently decided almost at the last minute to plead guilty, and leave his fate, be it life or death, in the hands of the chief justice of this commonwealth and an associate justice.

But it now develops that Almy has all the time been planning an escape and that he has had assistance from some unknown source. It is claimed that he has no need for crutches and uses them only to hoodwink his keepers. A double guard has been placed over him.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 17.—John Hoey, the deposed president of the Adams Express company, accompanied by his counsel, Elihu Root, and three associate attorneys, appeared in the United States circuit court yesterday, when argument was begun before Judge Green on the cross bill filed by Mr. Hoey, in which he denies any wrong doing, and asks the court to enjoin the company from disposing of the Southern Express company stock and parting with other securities deposited by him as collateral for loans.

The argument yesterday was not concluded, and the matter was adjourned until December 1.

TOLEDO, OHIO, NOVEMBER 17, 1891.

Senator McConica was in Toledo on Saturday. Nickels to doughnuts Mac will vote for Sherman.

Uncle Sam is going to "make a display" in Chilian waters, to the end that harmony may prevail. That's the regulation way.

Brazil has an area exceeding that of the United States by 200,000 square miles; it has also less than one-quarter of our population. Room enough and material enough (in quality) for a lively rebellion.

Major McKinley is helping Mr. Foraker by proxy, his able lieutenant being W. I. Squire, of Toledo. The Sherman fellows were a long time discovering the Major's method of working, but now they are after the governor with a sharp stick.

Mr. Foraker says he doesn't want Mr. Brice's seat; it is John Shermain's vacant chair he is after. That's the way to make the row interesting. A square knock-down fight between Sherman and Foraker is what we all want to see.

The Massachusetts secret ballot with the voter's name written on the back has already proven the wrong it can do a man. A Boston councilman's ballot has been identified and published to his apparent injury. Evidently the Massachusetts law needs amending or revising.

Laylin, of Huron, and Griffin, of Lucas, are the northwestern Ohio candidates for speaker, and Mr. Griffin expects to receive the entire northwestern support except Laylin's vote. The two contestants respectively represent the Sherman and Foraker interests in this section.

Another John Jacob Astor is born, and if he lives he will inherit $150,000,000. In swell New York Society they speak of the "dynasty of Astor," but they have little to say about the originator of the American dynasty of Astor—the pelt-peddling John Jacob, who paddled around the upper lakes among the red skins.

The Ohio society of Chicago will hold a reception on the 30th inst to meet Gov. Campbell, of Ohio, and Gen. Wager Swayne, of New York, the latter being the president of the Ohio society of New York. The occasion promises to be interesting and enjoyable to many distinguished Buckeyes who will be present.

New York is threatened with a water famine. The daily consumption is 130,000,000 gallons, and there is in the reservoirs only enough for one more week. A rainfall of two inches on the extensive Croton water shed is needed to avert the famine. In this serious emergency the New Yorkers turn their attention to the government experiments for producing rain, and at the expense of the World, Gen. Dryenforth, who has charge of Jerry Rusk's water department, will undertake to make the clouds burst over Gotham. It will be interesting to watch the result.

The Toledo Bee professes to see another era of ripperism with the incoming of a republican legislature. The Bee is unduly alarmed. The coming legislature will correct democratic blunders and abuses, but will do this in a wise and judicious manner.—Canton Repository.

"Wise and judicious" is extremely good. It will be the kind of correction which the fiery Foraker spoke of when he publicly said he would like to be governor just three days, to turn out every democratic office holder in Ohio. Such a sentiment will undoubtedly actuate the forthcoming republican legislature, and very "wisely" and "judiciously" the cities will be ripped and slashed. That is what everybody expects and nobody will be disappointed.

Gov. McKinley told a New York reporter that in the Iowa election the tariff was not the issue at all. Yet Mr. McKinley left his own stamping ground and went over there and made a high tax speech. And when Gov. Boies answered the address of congratulation he gave utterance to these ringing words:

To myself, and I believe to my party as well, the supreme satisfaction to be gathered from our victory is found in the fact that so many of the farmers of the state have comprehended the issue presented and set the seal of their indignant disapproval upon the effort to throttle discussion of measures that so virtually affect their own interest. The time has come when men who do not reap the benefits of our protective tariff laws are bound to investigate their effect upon those who bear the burdens they impose. No cry of "slanderer of his state" will stifle the effort of our people to fully understand this question.

I want to assure the gentlemen who have been so lavish with the use of terms like the above that the study of the cornfields in Iowa has only just begun. When it is ended the farmers of this state will be able to make an intelligent comparism of the effect of our protective tariff system upon their own and other industries of the country. They will have learned why it is that their own magnificent Iowa, the best for agricultural purposes in this union, and tilled by as industrious, economical and intelligent workmen as can be found in any part of the world, is plastered over with land mortgages representing nearly $200,000,000 of indebtedness of their own, and they will be ready to unitedly demand what is justly their due. And with them in a like demand will be joined the voices of workmen of every other class who are compelled to sell their labor in competition with that of the whole world, whether employed in protected or unprotected industries, and purchase the necessaries of life in the protected markets alone of this country.

Let us be patient. When the situation is understood the manual laborers of this country will uproot the system of legalized plunder that is fast dividing our people into classes that should never exist in a government whose laws may be framed by a common people. In accomplishing this no wrong will be done to capital. It will simply be required to take its chances in the United States with its kind in other parts of the world. We need not fear the result. History does not furnish a single example where capital in an equal contest with labor has been unable to protect itself without the aid of artificial support, but it is full of examples where laws for the protection of the poor against the encroachments of the rich have become necessary.

TOLEDO'S PARK COMMISSIONERS.

Gov. Campbell appointed the park commissionsr for Toledo to-day and made admirable selections. Emery Potter, Jr., was appointed for four years. S. C. Schenck, three years; B. F. Wade, two years, and T. H. Walbridge, one year. These gentlemen are thoroughly interested in the park question and will undoubtedly plan and execute to the entire satisfaction of our citizens. Toledo has made a good park beginning and the excellent work will continue.

MANUAL TRAINING.

Manual training in connection with common schools is become an applied science in that system of education. It is demonstrated that the mind develops better for the joint use of the brain and hands in school work. The boys and girls who intelligently follow the curriculum of the training department are stronger mentally as well as physically; they enter upon their work with more zest; the time passed in the manual department supplies recreation at proper hours, and the young men and women who complete both courses—study and training, are better qualified to immediately enter upon the work of obtaining a livelihood by their own efforts.

The Toledo Manual Training school is the pioneer institution in the United States. It is complete in every department and thorough in every particular. It is conducted upon broad principles and has worked its way to successful results. The school owes its existence to the public spirit and munificence of the late Jessup W. Scott, and its continuance is the pride of the city, which maintains it at public expense. It has been influential in spreading the idea of manual training in every direction, and many cities, large and small, have adopted, in some form, training schools for the young of both sexes. The manner of conducting the school in Toledo is practical and the methods of instruction are settled upon lines of experience that are beyond the experimental. The plan of teaching is good and the work thoroughly prosecuted.

In Chicago Mr. A. M. Crane has made a bequest for the establishment of manual training schools in that city and the newspapers are discussing it as if the idea were almost original with the donor and the city. Very much knowledgeous advice is given the board of education and one of the leading papers, the Herald, elucidates the subject by saying that the regular school instructors must do most of the teaching in the manual department and that the board of education must employ teachers who can perform this double duty. Much that the Herald says is so foreign to the real condition, as it must be if successful, that it is apparent the Chicagoese would better send a committee to Toledo to obtain some practical information upon the subject. Among other things the Herald says:

By manual training it is not meant that children shall be made artisans. They cannot be by such teaching nor at the age when it must be given.

Not wholly so, but the boys in Toledo obtain a fair knowledge of wood and iron work, architecture and wood carving, and the girls become thoroughly skilled in cooking and dress making. Thrown upon their own resources every boy and girl graduate of the Toledo manual training department of our public schools would be capable of earning their own living at hand work, and at remunerative wages. The services of this class of young people are in demand here and elsewhere.

Again, says the Herald:

It ought also be understood from the beginning that except in bench work all the instruction should be given by the ordinary teachers. To this end it will be necessary that the teachers shall themselves study the course to be followed with strict regularity, for manual training is as susceptible of gradation as geography or algebra. Mr. Crane undoubtedly has in mind the special teachers with whose co-operation he will inaugurate the new course in the Tilden school. But the board of education must prepare to afford teachers throughout the city the instruction that will enable it hereafter to put manual training into every school with no additional expense for special teachers except for bench work. There is nothing apart from bench work which any teacher of ordinary intelligence and attainments cannot easily and thoroughly learn.

It ought also be understood from the beginning that this injunction of our Chicago contemporary is all wrong. The rooms for the manual training department should be separate from the regular school rooms, though the buildings might adjoin each other. Skilled teachers are required in this department as in the other, and, if properly conducted, the entire time of the manual teachers will be occupied in their own departments.

It is demonstrated that the school children grasp the manual knowledge as readily as the mental, and without losing time in the regularly prescribed course of study in the schools. They do also become artisans, and some of the specimens on exhibition at the Toledo Manual Training school would do credit to skilled workmen in any factory in the country. This blessing to the growing generation Toledo confers free of expense to every child who desires to avail himself or herself of the opportunity. The training is entirely optional with the scholars, but those who complete the course and obtain the double diplomas, one from the high school and the other from the manual department, have reason to be thankful to the public for providing this splendid education, and to themselves a life time for having availed themselves of the golden opportunity.

Chicago may well afford to take a few lessons from Toledo before fixing upon a definite plan of manual training. The Future Great can give the Present Great some valuable pointers.

Mrs. Wanamaker has her house ornamented with foreign pauper bric-a-brac. S me of the most patient workers in this country are the strugglers in this line of art labor; but it is very different, you know, when plain Mrs. Brown or Mrs. Jones in the country wants to buy a woolen blanket or a dress She must use American shoddy goods and pay protectionist prices for them. This self-sacrificing patriotism is expected only of the common people.

The Washington Star says the new coins are handsome. "The cord of freedom has a livelier attitude with feet and wings outspread." And "the symmetry of the American system has been preserved throughout." These are great things but this doesn't settle the silver question, oh, no.

The rainy day club in Tacoma means something; it rains there. The ladies of that city are inventing promenade costumes. It's the rushing west that does these things with a go.

Canadian newspapers are American enough for annexation, as witness headlines from one of them: "The Gang Knocked Silly by the Empire's Boodle Disclosures."

MAJOR BILL BICKHAM'S SAY.

A covert, if not a sneaking effort to throw the responsibility of seating or non-seating the Hon. Calvin S. Brice upon Senator Sherman will not pan out profitably. Senator Sherman has no responsibility in the premises on the face of the returns. The case will take the usual historical course. Mr. Brice will present his credentials, which are in due form; he will take his seat as senator and there will remain until his title is successfully challenged by invalidating testimony, which the legislature of Ohio in January will be compelled to furnish. If it does so, then the whole case may be fetched before the senate and adjudicated according to senatorial rules and precedents. The result is just as apparent to-day as it will be hereafter. Brice will be senator for six years from the 4th of March, 1892, if he lives, or does not resign. It is nonsense to chatter about any other conclusion.—Dayton Journal, stalwart republican.

A delegation of Norwalk citizens, headed by Mayor Crawford, were in the city yesterday, inspecting the electric street railway system.

FARMERS ARE NOW AT BAT

Great Week for Bunco Men in Indianapolis.

President Polk Talks on the Work in View.

The Alliance Can Support No Man Who Is Not Fully In Accord With the Principles As Laid Down by Simpson.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 17.—This is surely to be farmers' week at Indianapolis. Every known organization of American farmers holds some sort of a meeting here. The supreme council of the Farmers' alliance and industrial union will be the main thing. Then there is the supreme council of the Farmers' Mutual Benefit association, the executive committee of the Confederated Industrial unions, the executive committee of the people's party, the national board of organizers, the Reform Press association, and the National State Agents' association, all hold meetings.

All the allied interests of these concerns are being considered generally. Shall they be taken collectively and merged into one interest is a question that may deserve more or less attention. What hinders this, and how far shall politics be involved in other problems? Will the alliance nominate a national ticekt, or will it be left for the people's party? is a question that the outside world is vaguely pondering. The present conventions are not for the purpose of nominating tickets, but for transacting the vast business of the interests involved, and for considering measures looking to the future of the allied concerns.

The executive committee of the Confederated industrial organizations held a meeting yesterday. The confederated organizations embrace the Farmers' Mutual Benefit association, the Farmers' alliance and Industrial union, the National alliance and Co-Operative union, the Citizens' alliance and the Knights of Labor. The members of the executive committee are Ben Terrell, of Texas, chairman; C. W. McCune, of Texas; P. J. Still, of Illinois; R. M. Humphrey, of Texas; T. V. Powderly, of Pennsylvania, and Ralph Beaumont, of Kansas, each representing one of the organizations named above. Mr. Powderly was not present.

One of the principal subjects discussed was the proposed change of the location of the meeting of the conference in February from Washington to some more central point. Chicago will probably be selected.

President Terrell said of the objects of this meeting: "Its purpose is to take action toward the unification of all labor interests, to adopt a platform that all the organizations comprising the confederation can stand on, that by united action they may procure the legislation they are demanding."

Another matter that will be taken up at the February meeting will be the question of admission to the confederation of a number of other organizations that have applied, among them the Federation of Labor, the Knights of Industry and the Labor Christian union.

Naturally there is a great deal of political gossip in connection with the meeting. The hardest political fight will be made on the indorsement of the people's party by the alliance. The consensus of opinion of the delegates already here is that the alliance will not indorse the third party movement, but will indorse that party whose platform most closely proclaims alliance principles. The members of the alliance are piqued because republicans are making much of alliance opposition to Cleveland. A number of them are reported as being opposed to Cleveland because of his position on free coinage.

"But," said President Polk to a reporter, "while it is true that they are opposed to Cleveland, the alliance will vote as readily against Harrison or Blaine or Cleveland or Hill or any other man who does not advocate the alliance principles. We do not vote for men, but for principles; consequently it would be the veriest inconsistency for us to vote for Cleveland and Harrison, who are single standard men.

"By the way, no doubt you have heard of the great combination of Stanford and Polk for the head of the third party ticket. Why, Stanford would not get an alliance vote for constable. All these articles which are circulated urging Stanford for the presidency on the third party ticket are the paid boomers for him. His circulation bill was a pernicious measure and degraded the proposed currency from the very start."

THE ELECTION BOARDS.

Information for the Benefit of a Taxpayer and Subscriber.

The Bee has received a note from a gentleman signing himself "Taxpayer and Subscriber," in which information is recested concerning the salary and composition of the Board of Elections. The following facts will answer the query:

The same board acts for the city and county and receives compensation for both.

The board is non-partisan in character, and consists of four members, a secretary and one assistant.

The following statement shows the salary paid per annum:

For services as city board:
H. S. Walbridge, rep.	$400
C. F. Curtis, dem.	400
E. W. Tolerton, dem.	400
H. C. Ellis, rep.	400
H. E. King, rep., secretary,	600
County Board:
H. S. Walbridge,	$500
C. F. Curtis,	500
E. W. Tolerton,	500
H. C. Ellis,	500
H. E. King, secretary,	600
Walter Emerson, serviser,	300
Total,	$5,100

Secretary King, who kindly furnished the Bee with the above information, stated that 30 new booths would be necessary next fall, as the present supply is inadequate. These booths cost $150 each, and the additional clerical force, will necessitates an additional expenditure of $6,300.

The Australian system will be utilized in the spring as well as fall.

JEWELRY FADS.

Little Notes of Ornaments, Useful and Beautiful.

Silver Pencils and tooth picks are made in various shapes, such as tenpenny nails, large screws, bits, etc.

Pretty silver stick pins in the shape of swords, daises and chrysanthemums are much worn.

Very fine and delicate neck chains with a filigree gold cross or a small heart set with diamonds are quite stylish.

Enameled flower lace pins will be worn this season; they are a departure from the burnished and Etruscan gold. Some of the enameled pins are so delicate that it requires expert lady artists to make them. A lady in New York makes as high as $35 per week at this kind of work.

Collar and cuff boxes finished in embossed bright silver makes very swell presents for gentlemen.

Handkerchief and glove boxes in Repoisse silver are the proper thing for a nice present for a lady.

Silver paper weights in the shape of a large fly of Brizzulian beatle are novel.

A very large silver mounted ink-well set or a silver tray is a pretty present for a lady or gentleman.

Oxydized silver shaving mugs are made in many handsome designs.

A soap box in bright or oxydized silver is an addition to the toilet set and is indispensible when traveling.

Silver drinking flasks are made in many different styles, among the latest are those having a number of "swallows" (birds of course) soldered on the flask, representing a favorite swallow—several swallows, etc.

Quite large silver curbed linked bracelets in plain and hand chased are "stylish."

Very slender gold wire bracelets, embellished with diamonds, rubies and pearls make a robby present for conservative tastes.

Solid gold beads are always in style and have been since Cleopatra wore them.

That Dairy Maid's festival on Friday evening will be as novel as attractive.

That the laying of natural gas and water pipes will soon close for the season.

That the arrangements for opening a bank in East Toledo are progressing finely.

That the entertainment to be given by the Ys has been postponed until Dec. 10 and 11.

That a proposition is on foot to form a Tammany hall political organization in the city.

That Louis Nunn and Mose Math are running a dead-heat for the deputy oil inspectorship.

That it will be five years before another eclipse of the moon will be visible in these parts.

That the Gendron iron works presents a beautiful scene in the evening after being lighted up.

That a lodge of the Knights of Phythias will be instituted at Perrysburg early next month.

That the cyclorama building is one of the best points of interest in or about the city at which to spend an hour.

That steps should be taken to provide a supply of good things for the poor of Toledo as Thanksgiving approaches.

That there is talk among leading republicans for a bill applying the Federal plan in vogue at Cleveland to Toledo.

That there is a long docket of the civil and criminal cases before the United States court which convenes in Toledo early next month.

That the brain of the average parent is being taxed to cipher out what shall be bought for Christmas presents, and where the money to pay for the same is to come from.

That when the elevator is completed in the Masonic Temple building, all the halls owned by the different orders will be on a level so far as this accommodation is concerned.

That a politician on the inside states the new congressional district will be composed of Lucas, Wood, Williams and Fulton counties. Nothing lop-sided about such a district!

That the confirmation by the United States court of the recent sale of the C., J. & M. railroad will have the effect to at once allow of arrangements for putting the property in better shape.

That the race for police clerk between Jake Weier, Sam Tanner and Mike Fogarty will stir up the republican hosts sufficiently to allow of the election of a democrat. Some good will therefore result.

That if the clergymen of Toledo would devote less time to the discussion of theology and more to assist in solving the practical questions and doubts of the day, the pews of the several churches would be more fully occupied.

GOSSIP FROM FINDLAY.

An Interesting Fight Over An Oil Well.

An Old Lady Takes Possession and Does Not Propose to be Euchred by the Standard.

Findlay, Nov. 17.—(Special)—The oil well drillers in this city and vicinity have organized a union for mutual benefit and protection. Articles of incorporation have been sent to the secretary of state.

The funeral of E. N. Motley of Cygnet, the well known gyceerine shooter, who was killed by the accidental discharge of his gun while out hunting last Friday, occurred in this city to-day under the auspices of the K. of P. and U. R. of Bowling Greene and this city. It was an imposing and impressive affair. He was well known all over the oil field.

The citizens of Findlay are thoroughly in earnest on the subject of a suitable public building, and will hold a public meeting this evening for this purpose. No city in the country has outgrown its facilities or increased its postal revenue as Findlay has in the past decade.

Trouble Over a Gas Well.

At Arcadia yesterday the family of Tip Hale, residing near the village, raised a big row because they imagined the Northwestern Gas company was trying to swindle them in condemning a well drilled on their farm. The company was drilling for gas and were disappointed with the showing the well made and ordered a man from this city to withdraw the casing. He went out to do so, but a son met him with a shot-gun and threatened to shoot, and Mrs. Hale took her position sitting down over the casing. Young Hale was bound over to the probate court under $200 bond. The Hale family claim the well is all right, but that the company is trying to swindle them.

Died.

E. W. Kerns, a popular young druggist of this city, died in Colorado yesterday, where he had gone for his health. The remains are expected home to-day for interment. He was about 23 years old.

SENATOR BRICE'S SEAT.

It is becoming evident that the seat of Senator Brice is regarded among Ohio republicans as a bone for convenience rather than contention. However sincere the able leaders of senatorial factions may be in their belief that Senator Brice is not entitled to represent Ohio on account of his supposed non-residence, it is certain that their followers are disposed to raise an insincere howl for the purpose of influencing the coming contest in the Ohio legislature.

As we have repeatedly said, all this talk and comment in reference to the possibility of unseating Senator Brice is idle and in vain. He is as legally elected and duly qualified and distinctly eligible a member as a dozen others who have occupied seats in the senate without question. Senator Sherman is practically as much a non-resident as Senator Brice, and if he was required to vote upon the question of his colleague's eligibility on that ground, he would undoubtedly cast his vote in his favor if he followed his inclinations. There will probably never be a contest concerning Senator Brice's seat, and the probability will become a certainty if Senator Sherman succeeds in retaining his seat. The wildest enthusiast for Senator Sherman could not consistently and conscientiously say that the senior Ohio senator would relish a republican colleague. He has not had one in the past twenty years and he does not want one in the future. The senate is republican and Senator Sherman does not regard an Ohio addition to the majority as essential. Everything combines to show that Senator Brice can remain serene.—Columbus Dispatch, Ind. Rep.

AS SEEN IN MASSACHUSETTS.

Unfortunately for the project, it is not in the power of the Ohio legislature to vacate the seat of Senator Brice. It rests with the United States Senate to do this. That body is not at all likely to take such action. It would be a piece of unscrupulous partisan work, as it is well known that the precedents are all against so doing, several senators having held their places on a residence with the constituencies they represent as nominal as that of Mr. Brice without question. It is well understood that more than one republican senator is already committed to uphold Brice in his seat, and that he has a hold on one of the most influential republicans in Ohio itself. There is likely to be a square fight beween Sherman and Foraker, and, though we have none too high an opinion of Ohio politicians, we are not prepared to believe that Sherman will fail to win.—Boston Herald.

THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN

Differ With Their Co-Workers in the Lower Branch

On Several Important Matters—No Conductors Yet—The Gas Ordinance—Other Business.

All members were present at the meeting of the board of aldermen last evening, and business was well handled for this board. Several important questions were acted upon without much discussion, and on several of them the action of the other board was knocked in the head. This is especially true of the street railway ordinance, for the aldermen refused to concur in the amendments compelling conductors to be placed on all bob-tail cars. The ghost of the Oliver street sidewalk was also on hand again.

The ordinance fixing the price of illuminating gas was at the head of the schedule and passed second reading, but then it found the traveling somewhat rough.

The ordinance fixes the price at $1.25 net, and as Mr. Potter thought the gas should be furnished cheaper he made a speech.

In his talk he rather slurred the committee that looked over the gas company's books, and to these remarks Mr. Macomber took exceptions and explained. He also stated that this sub-committee had satisfactorily shown that it costs the Toledo Gas Light and Coke company 55 cents per thousand to furnish gas at the tip. He was satisfied that next year the gas could be made at a cost of 50 cents. As a compromise he thought $1.10 per thousand would be about the right price, and he considered that a more profitable rate for the gas company for furnishing water gas than the last contract for furnishing coal gas. It gives them a profit of 100 per cent.

After a little more desultory discussion a vote was taken and the board refused to suspend the rules for a third reading by the following vote: Noes, Hartford, Peiter, Potter, Huberich and Macomber, 5; ayes, Everett, Morgan, Graham and Leroux.

Resolutions were adopted for more electric lights on Prescott and Horton streets; Hicks, Calkins, Wells and Harriett streets; Webster and Holyrood streets; Scottwood, Bancroft, Floyd and Virginia streets and Detroit avenue, from Dorr street to the M. C. railway.

Ordinances were passed to grade Segur avenue, from Bloomfield street to the alley east of said street; to grade Newberry street, from Broadway to Lorain street; to guade Knower street, from Dix to Sumner; to change the name of Lenk street to City Park avenue, and to change the name of McCloud avenue, Bedortha street and part of county road 39 to Wheeling street.

Resolutions were adopted to grade Page street, Lagrange to Elm; to grade the sidewalk beds on Division street, from Vance street to Wabash street, and to turnpike Chase street, from Galena street to the alley south of New York avenue.

Resolutions were also adopted for new sidewalks on Miami street, John street, East Toledo, and Indiana avenue.

The ordinance to accept the plat of Barker's Oak street addition was referred back to the committee.

The ordinance to accept the plat of several lots in W. C. Daniels' addition was passed.

Mr. Morgan again brought up the Oliver street sidewalk matter, and the board held another seance with this bothersome ghost. He moved that the board reconsider its previous action on the sidewalk resolution, and when this was done he asked that the resolution which was before them be read.

This resolution provides that the sidewalk shall be laid in the sidewalk bed between the trees and the outer line of the street and as close to the trees as possible, thus saving them from destruction.

Mr. Macomber thought that this resolution would settle the question in proper shape and favored its adoption.

Messrs. Morgan and Potter opposed it, but they were alone, and when the vote came the resolution was adopted, ayes 7, noes 2.

The report of the ways and means committee meeting, whose action is mentioned elsewhere, was read and approved.

In accordance with their recommendations an ordinance was passed for the issue of $20,600 in certificates of indebtedness to pay bills and salaries for the month.

An ordinance was also passed to ratify the issue of general fund refunding bonds recently sold. When questioned City Solicitor Read stated that this was of no use, but was simply to please the Boston attorney of the bank buying the bonds.

A communication was read from the city solicitor on the matter of changing the grade of Beacon street, from Cherry to Union. He did not consider that a majority of the property had petitioned for it, and it would be dangerous to proceed with present legislation.

The mayor returned with his veto the resolution to confirm the contract with M. V. O'Sullivan for building a plank sidewalk on Missouri street. The mayor did not consider the sidewalk a necessity, and besides the street is not in a proper condition.

The resolution to confirm the contract with M. M. Goulden for building a plank walk on the east side of Fifteenth street in front of lot 38 was also vetoed for the reason that the street is soon to be paved and a stone walk should be laid.

The first business from the board of councilmen was the general street railway ordinance which came up for concurrence in amendments.

The aldermen concurred in the amendment to allow each company to maintain a trolley wire in any street, but refused to concur in the amendments to place safety gates and conductors on all cars, short as well as long. The vote on the latter two propositions was—Ayes, Macomber, Morgan, Peiter and Potter; noes, Leroux, Huberich, Hartford, Everett and Graham.

This sends the ordinance back to the councilmen, and if they insist upon their amendments the ordinance is killed.

The remainder of the long schedule from the lower board was adopted.

The resolution to confirm the contract for grading Union street, which came up as unfinished business, was laid over for two weeks.

A SENSATION IN NEW YORK.

A Detective Comes Over Among the Immigrants.

He Says That One Hundred and Sixteen Are Assisted Paupers and Makes Charges of Gross Immorality.

New York, Nov. 17.—A sensation that threatens to be far more than a nine day's wonder occurred at the barge office yesterday.

It came as the culmination of a detective trip of Special Immigration Commissioner H. J. Schulteis, and in the shape of the broadest charge of grossest immorality that ever was levelled at immigrants to this country.

It attacked 116 of them and implicated some of the crew of the steamship Servia.

Schulteis, it appears, disguised himself as an immigrant, and took passage on the Servia to this country in the steerage.

When the vessel arrived yesterday he made known his identity to Superintendent Weber, and demanded that 11 of the immigrants be detained, charging them with immorality and with being assisted paupers.

Col. Weber asked the commissioner to make specific charges of immorality against any one of the immigrants and he would at once investigate the case. Mr. Schulteis then made formal charges of immorality against Ingoberg Peterson, a 17-year-old Swedish girl. He mentioned some of the crew of the Servia as having been her accomplices in vice.

The girl denies the charge with great vehemence, made affidavits as to her innocence, and requested an examination by a physician. Col. Weber promptly released her, as well as the other immigrants, on Mr. Schulteis' failure to prove any of his charges. The Petersen girl has been advised to bring an action for criminal slander against the commissioner. Mr. Schulteis says he will press the matter at the meeting of the commissioners.

BRIEF AND BUSINESSLIKE.

The Meeting of the Board of Gas Trustees Last Evening.

The meeting of the board of gas trustees last evening was brief, and there was but little business to be transacted. The two B's—Backus and Brown were absent.

The tenor of opinion was that, injunction or no injuction, large concerns will not be furnished gas under any consideration.

Mrs. Beunty, who was injured in the gas explosion in the Sherman school, presented a bill of $50 for medical services. She is willing to call it square on the payment of this sum. Referred.

The payroll, amounting to $8,205, was passed and ordered paid. Claims amounting to $325 were also ordered paid.

The brick barn back of the gas office was ordered to be leased for six months.

Lines were ordered laid on the following streets:

Canton avenue, 50 feet from terminal to connect.

Orchard street, 120 feet extension.

Broadway, 50 feet south of Jarvis.

Mr. Parsons, from the special committee on the Van Buren case, reported that the matter had been amicably settled on the payment of $50 and costs.

Manager Heston reported back that on account of the large number of private consumers it would be impracticable to supply the Toledo window glass works with gas.

Receipts amounting to 654 were reported.

J. R. Boice notified the board that he had burned gas amounting to $1.903 and asked a bill for the same.

Dr. Jones said complaint had been made to him that foreigners were being employed on the city line to the exclusion of home labor. The matter was referred to the committee on city plant.

Residents of Noble street asked for a line on that street from Walnut to Locust. It was referred to the superintendent to report.

Manager Heston reported that the city gas inspector was six days behind the connections, and there was complaint from many people.

Mr. Stollberg, from the Toledo window glass works, wanted to know if the gas could not be supplied to the factory for certain purposes if meters were used.

TINKERING WITH THE CREED

Innocent Infants Are No Longer Condemned.

Dr. Briggs On Hand Making Master Strokes for a More Liberal View in Considering the Faith.

New York, Nov. 17.—The New York Presbytery met in the Scotch Presbyterian church yesterday. The entire afternoon was devoted to the consideration of the report of the committee on revision, which was submitted at the session held a week ago.

Dr. Charles A. Briggs and his friends were on hand. The professor succeeded in securing one or two important amendments to the report. The most important discussion was that over the amendment recommended by the committee that all reference to foreordination to everlasting death, or any doctrine of non-election should be omitted.

It was recommended that the doctrine be stricken out because it is merely a logical and philosophical inference deduced from the doctrine of election, and is not a part of the Holy Scriptures.

The discussion between those favoring the retention of the doctrine of foreordination and those opposed to it consumed the greater portion of the session.

The first resolution reported by the committee was adopted. In the second it was amended by suggesting condensation instead of "slight condensation," as reported by the committee. The third resolution, excepting two sections, relating to the doctrine of sovereign election, sovereign preterition, eternal foreordination to death, etc., was finally passed as reported by the committee after a long debate.

Dr. H. M. Field made a strong argument against foreordination. On motion of Dr. Briggs the words "in the act of regeneration" were stricken out in section 2.

After considerable discussion by Dr. Briggs, Dr. Sanford and others, Dr. Briggs urging that some provision should be made for the salvation of those incapable of being called by the ministry of the word and for the heathen, a substitute offered by Dr. Briggs was adopted as follows: "Infants dying in infancy and other persons who are incapable of being called by the ministry of the word, are regenerated and saved by Christ, through the Spirit, which worketh when and where and how it pleaseth; also may other persons who have not been called by the ministry of the word." The last clause was moved by Dr. Briggs.

Section 4 was so amended as to read as follows: "Those persons who are called by the ministry of the word, and yet resist the Holy Spirit and never truly come to Christ, cannot be saved; neither is there any salvation in any other way than by Christ, truth, and spirit."

At 6 o'clock the presbytery adjourned to meet in the lecture room of the church next Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

FOUND A SKELETON.

Mansfield, Nov. 17.—A peculiar case was reported to Prosecuting Attorney Bell to-day which may lead to sensational developments. Recently two men named Statler were building a fence near Independence, this county, when they unearthed a small human skeleton. This find calls to mind the mysterious disappearance of a 13-year old son of Henry Hoflick, of that vicinity, about four years ago.

MANUAL TRAINING SCHOOL

Affords an Opportunity for a Lecture to Columbus People.

Toledo's manual training school, which is a part of the common school system of that city, is said to be producing excellent results. The delegates to the Knights of Labor general assembly visited the institution on Thursday and were delighted with what they saw. The advocates of manual training in the public schools hold that the training of the mind and the hand should go together. It is not expected that these schools will turn out skilled mechanics. They are rather intended to give to youths such instruction as will tend to develop their natural aptitude and to give them a knowledge of the elementary principles of mechanism, and thus to facilitate the acquirement of that skill, when they come to learn trades, which makes superior workmen. The boys in the training schools take great delight in this work. They find in it a recreative diversion from their studies that cannot fail to prove beneficial. The subject is certainly worthy of the serious consideration of our own board of education. Numbers of boys and men have gained a knowledge in the night schools of Dayton, and especially in the drawing schools, that has made them more proficient in their chosen avocations and has secured for them better renumeration for their services than they could otherwise have hoped to obtain. Even more satisfactory results might follow the establishment of a manual training school. Let the matter have proper consideration.—Columbus Post.

EVENING COOKING SCHOOL.

A Success Beyond Peradventure—Another Class to be Formed.

The evening cooking school, taught by the teachers of cooking in the Manual Training school, is a success. About that there can be no question. Monday week there were 23 present, notwithstanding the rain. Again last night, although it stormed so fiercely, there was a good attendance. Five tables were filled, with four girls at each table, and the lesson given was upon "soups." Stock soup, cream soup, tomato soup and others were taught, a different soup at each table. There are now not less than forty names entered for this school, and all are urged to be present next Monday night, as a second class must be formed, and then the classes should be closed, so that future instructions may be received alike by all who attend.

JUST HOW IT WORKS.

Before the passage of the McKinley bill, Mexican silver-bearing ores came to St. Louis, Kansas City and other western cities for reduction. Now the Mexican mine-owners are putting in reduction plants of their own. The owners of the San Vincente in Guanajuato have just done so, and smelting works have been established at various other points. All this is at the expense of the Mississippi Valley, for before we not only smelted these ores, but shipped goods to Mexico in exchange for them.—St. Louis Republic.

INHALATION

Of Medicated Air and Compressed Gasses

Through An Automatic Hydraulic Inhalation Machine.

The Great European Treatment for Throat, Lung and Nasal Diseases, Such As Bronchitis, Asthma, Deafness, Catarrh, Consumption, Etc., Etc.

A good deal of interest has been excited among those afflicted with throat, lung and nasal diseases, by the announcement that many people in this locality have been permanently cured of Bronchitis, Asthma, Deafness, Catarrh, and Consumption. The Bee learns on good authority that these cures of heretofore incurable diseases were wrought by the scientific process called inhalation. This latest improved inhalation process consists of breathing into the lungs and cavities of the head medicated air and gases, generated and vitalized by an automatic hydraulic inhalation machine. This wonderful generating, medicating and vitalizing machine, which is now being operated with such remarkable success by Dr. Kalkhoff and his staff of European specialists, at 505 and 507 Summit street, between Oak and Orange streets, is the only one of the kind ever imported from Europe to this country.

An inquiry as to why such a beneficent and life saving process of treatment is not resorted to by the regular medical practitioners in America, elicited the following reply: The cost of complicated inhalation apparatus, the necessity of expert medical knowledge and the vast amount of time required for the preparation and perfection of the varied forms of this treatment, all combine to make it impractical and impossible for the busy family doctors. They have little leisure for study, experimentation and successful application of the inhalation treatment after driving the better part of the day and a portion of the night, and in all kinds of weather to the abodes of bed-ridden patients.

A medical specialist for the successful treatment of difficult chronic and private diseases is just as necessary an adjunct of the medical profession as great criminal and railroad lawyers are in the legal profession, or as skilled mechanics are to properly execute a fine grade of work, not understood by the man who has spent his time in the ordinary routine labor of life. There are, however, some alleged charlatans calling themselves medical specialists and preying upon honest people, just as there are bogus and incompetent lawyers, preachers and mechanics.

One of the surest proofs that some so-called medical specialists are frauds and charlatans is the fact that they have only one or two methods of healing all classes of disease, which they claim arise from some other one disease, as for instance catarrh. These catarrh fakirs know nothing about latest scientific treatment of any chronic disease, but use some common-place remedy that will relieve the patient for a short time until they can get his or her testimonial. Another characteristic of the catarrh charlatan is that he advertises to cure all cases, no matter how difficult, at one price, while a thorough physician always makes the price according to the severity of the case. Then again honest medical specialists do not publish testimonials of cures before their patients have had time to know whether they are permanently well. One of the best evidences that the inhalation process, as practiced by Dr. Kalkhoff and his staff of European specialists, is a permanent cure for catarrh and all throat, nose, ear and lung diseases is found in the fact that these eminent graduates of the best medical colleges never give a testimonial from their patients until six months to a year after treating them. If the disease does not return by that time then it is safe to say that it never will. The reporter saw many testimonials of remarkable cures at the elegant offices of Dr. Kalkhoff and his staff at Nos. 505 and 507 Summit street, between Oak and Orange, and secured a promise that some of them should soon be published for the benefit of suffering humanity.

LEFT UNDONE.

It isn't the thing you do, dear,
It's the thing you've left undone.
Which gives you a bit of heartache
At the setting of the sun;
The tender word forgotten,
The letter you did not write,
The flower you might have sent, dear,
Are your haunting ghosts to-night.

The stone you might have lifted
Out of a brother's way,
The bit of heartsome counsel
You were hurried too much to say,
The loving touch of the hand, dear,
The gentle and winsome tone,
That you had no time or thought for,
With troubles enough of your own.

The little act of kindness,
So easily out of mind;
Those chances to be angels
Which every mortal finds—
They come in night and silence—
Each chill, reproachful wraith—
When hope is faint and flagging,
And a blight has dropped on faith.

For life is all too short, dear,
And sorrow is all too great,
To suffer our slow compassion
That tarries until too late;
And it's not the thing you do, dear,
It's the thing you leave undone,
Which gives you the bit of heartache
At the setting of the sun.

Doctors who know how to nurse and trust to nature often show remarkable proficiency in their profession. That curious plant commonly called the mother-in-law obtained its name in a curious way. An expert of the botanical gardens attached to the Smithsonian institution, in explaining the curious properties of the plant to a reporter, mentioned the fact that it had the power of paralyzing the tongue. "A good thing for a mother-in-law" said the reporter, and then and there the name mother-in-law was appliedt to the plant.

A third of an inch gives us a full size in length of a shoe; a sixth furnishes the intermediate point between two sizes, the saving of which is desirable if practicable; a small fraction of breadth goes a good way in securing comfort, and in girth of ball or instep an infinitesimal part of an inch is sometimes an ell of freedom; a quarter of an inch is a good deal of letting down or elevating at the heel, and the difference of a sixteenth is readily perceptible at the sole.

It is learned from the publishers that Lew Wallace's new book is expected to be ready for the press by New Year's. Gen. Wallace is a most methodical literary worker. He usually rises at 6, and after taking some slight refreshment, starts out on a horseback ride for a couple of hours, returning for breakfast at about 8. People have always wanted to know their destiny beforehand, and have ever been impatient to wait for the natural developments in the course of life. St. Orlando's stone, which stands about a mile northeast of Glamis castle, England, had the reputation in years past of prophetically revealing the events of the future, either by speech or sign from itself, or inward response felt by those who invoked its aid. Maidens, therefore, repaired to its hallowed shrine for information as to their future destiny, and lovers plighted their solemn troth there.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

Fine Production of Master and Man at the People's.

Opening of the Cadets' Cartridge Box To-Night—Good Attractions Coming at the Theaters.

Master and Man opened at the People's theater last evening for a week's engagement, and played to a good sized house. This realistic drama, by Sims and Pettit, is one of the strongest on the stage, and when at the People's last year drew crowded houses every night. It has been improved considerable since, and will undoubtedly have a great week. The story is laid about one of the great English iron works, and the truthfulness of the scenes are wonderfully realistic.

Dominick Murray as Humpy Logan gives a splendid rendition of a difficult character, and his excellent acting called forth much applause, while the mean disposition of Humpy brought down the hisses of the gallery gods.

Murray is ably seconded by Walter Edwards as Jack Walton, A. D. Beebe as Robert Carlton, and C. H. Sanders as Tom Brady.

The workingmen's quartette displayed good voices and received several encores. The songs and dances of the Twin City Trio, Sanders, Wonn and Lotta Hollywood, were not up to the standard, but on the whole the production of Master and Man is a splendid piece of work.

Nellie McHenry in the latest comedy success, A Night at the Circus, will be at this theater next week.

The Rivals To-Morrow.

Much disappointment is expressed over the illness of Mr. W. J. Florence, which will undoubtedly prevent his appearance here with the Jefferson-Florence company to-morrow night, but it is one of those occurrences that can not be helped. The sale of seats yesterday was very large, and a crowded house will greet The Rivals, notwithstanding the disappointment.

Carmencita.

This wonderful Spanish dancer, who has created such a sensation in all the great cities of the world, will be at Wheeler's Monday night with the Spanish Students, and her engagement is exciting much interest, especially among society people with whom she has been the greatest favorite.

Jane.

Toledo people will be given a rare treat Wednesday evening of next week when the high class comedy Jane will be presented at the Wheeler opera house. This piece has just closed a run of 100 nights in New York, its first production in this country, and Toledo people are to have an opportunity to witness the original cast, as the company is playing a few short stands while on the way to Chicago for a run.

Cartridge Box.

The Toledo Cadets will open their Cartridge Box for the third time to-night and will repeat the volley to-morrow and Thursday evenings at Memorial hall. The ability of the cadets as entertainers is well known and their friends are assured of a rare treat this week.

The entertainment opens with a one-act farce entitled Wanted—Actors, the cast of which was mentioned yesterday. This will be produced in military hall, which will afterwards be cleared for dancing, later in the evening. A fancy fair of large dimensions will be held in Memorial hall on the second floor and supper will be served in the annex. The basement will be opened as smoking rooms for the gentlemen who desire to pass a short time in the enjoyment of a weed. Arrangements are all complete and everything is expected to go off with the precision of drill.

Notes.

Rhea will give three performances of the Czarina at the Wheeler opera house Thursday and Friday of next week.

Brady's Clemenceau Case is booked for Wheeler's Saturday of next week.

Major Dane lectures in the Y. M. C. A. course at Wheeler's to-night.

TO PURCHASE A PIPE-ORGAN.

Plans Inaugurated Last Night at St. John's M. E. Church.

The monthly business meeting and social session of St. John's chapter of the Epworth league was held last night, and though the weather was not such as to induce attendance, the members turned out in goodly numbers. At the business session, report was made by Mrs. Frank Tanner that the Ladies' Aid society had determined to purchase a pipe-organ for the main audience room, and the help of the league was invoked. The suggestion met with much favor, and most of those present agreed to subscribe, the amount to be earned by the individual effort of the contributors, and when the same was raised, a general meeting would be held at which the program would be made up largely with the recital of the experiences had in securing the necessary funds. This would serve a double purpose—a pleasant social and a jubilee at the success attained. The organ is to be bought and paid for before the close of the present conference year.

After the disposal of routine business, the following program was rendered, which was received with generous applause: Recitation, Miss Emma Seek; piano solo, Miss Flora Van Gorder; dialogue, Neal Harris and Vince Emmick; piano solo, Vashti Klein; reading, George Bartlett.

St. John's chapter is in excellent shape, well-officered, and doing much good among the young people of lower town. The ladies, hosts in themselves, are to be congratulated in securing the active co-operation of the chapter in the undertaking they have voluntarily assumed.

THE THREE WISHES.

Three girls sat idly on the beach—
One like a lily, tall and fair;
One brilliant with her raven hair;
One sweet and shy of speech.

"I wish for fame," the lily said.
"And I for wealth and courtly life."
Then gently spoke the third, "As wife
I ask for love instead."

Years passed. Again beside the sea
Three women sat with whitening hair,
Still graceful, lovable and fair,
And told their destiny.

"Fame is not all," the lily sighed.
"Wealth futile if the heart be dead."
"I have been loved," one sweetly said,
"And I am satisfied."
—Sarah K. Bolton in Judge.

FARM AND GARDEN.

Illinois Experiments with Wheat.

The season of 1890-91 was more than usually favorable for wheat over most of Illinois, and the crop of the state was one of the best for many years. The experiments reported, with one exception, were made on the fertile dark-colored prairie soil of the station grounds at Champaign. An experiment with fertilizers was made at Flora, Odin, Nashville, and near Belleville.

Trials for three years indicate that variation in quantity of seed between one and two bushels per acre have less effect on the yield than other conditions. In 1891 the largest yield was from six pecks per acre; in 1890, from four and eight pecks; in 1889, from five pecks.

In 1891 sowing small kernels gave a larger yield than was obtained from the same weight of larger kernels; but less than from the same number of larger kernels. The kernels in the crop from the small seeds were approximately as large as those from the larger seed.

In two trials no injury resulted from rolling drilled wheat soon after sowing.

The yield of five plats, sown at intervals of ten or twelve days, from September 2 to October 12, were all good. It is not certain that they were affected by the date of sowing. If the last sown plat be excepted, there was no appreciable difference in time of ripening, and very little including it. The quantity of straw and the number of stalks per square foot decreased from the earliest sowing. The average length of heads and weight of kernels increased from the first to the last, except in the case of the second sowing, which was better than the third. In view of danger from the Hessian fly and of undue growth of straw, very early sowing is not advisable; and the danger to late sown wheat from repeated freezing in winter or early spring makes it unsafe in this latitude to sow in October.

Covering wheat one inch deep gave better results than covering three inches, and much better than covering five inches.

Trials with various commercial fertilizers on wheat indicate that on the soil of the station grounds such use is not profitable. Barnyard manure invariably produces a noticeable effect. Trials at Flora, Odin and Nashville show a marked increase in yield from use of barnyard manure; also some increase from the use superphosphate of lime, but, in general, not enough to make its use profitable At Belleville neither barnyard manure nor superphosphate produced any considerable percentage of increase yield In view of the results in the former years, trials on a small scale of superphosphate of lime and cattle tankage are recommended for wheat on the light colored soils of southern Illinois. The value of barnyard manure for these soils can hardly be overestimated.

Trial of twelve varieties of English cross bred wheat and of two varieties from France indicate possible value from some, with, however, a probability that all will mature too late to be very desirable in Illinois. A trial of a promising new variety of spring wheat from Canada, as was to have been expected, did not give promising results here.

In experiments with wheat and chess, where wheat only was sown no chess was found. Where both were sown both grew. Where chess alone was sown it produced a large crop; and, although carefully harvested, it seeded the ground thickly for the next year. Spring-grown chess grew vigorously but produced no seed.

A Chapter On Horses.

In the case of a healthy horse, the fore leg always comes to the ground in an extended shape, all its bones, with the exception of those at the pastern joints, abutting on one another in very nearly a straight line, from the point of the shoulder to the extremity of the leg, so that being manifestly incapable of further extension, it must be concluded, on the principle laid down, that it is equally incapable of exerting any propelling energy, and consequently that the only purpose it can serve is that of sustaining the weight of the incumbent fore quarter during the successive advances of the hind legs. Add to this that the bony structure of the fore leg is joined to the rest of the frame by mere muscular attachments, calculated not to communicate impulse, but to break concussion and we will come to the conclusion that the propelling power of the horse does not reside in the fore legs.

The hind legs, however, instead of being merely united by a flexible and elastic muscular attachment with the rest of the frame, are exerted into the extremity of the spinal column by connecting bones of large dimensions and eminently calculated, from their direction to impart impulse to the whole figure. The limb is brought to the ground with all its parts in a high state of contraction, the shank-bone forming an angle with the upper leg bone at the hock, the upper leg bone forming an angle with the thigh bone at the stifle joint, and the thigh bone forming another angle with the haunch bone, which abuts directly on the lumbar vertebrae and is the immediate agent in conveying the impulsive force of the hind leg to that center of the system. Here, then, we have a series of no less than three angles, not to speak of the elastic aponeurosis of the pastern in the successive openings out of which, by contraction of the limb at every stride, all the muscular energy of the hind quarters is called into play, and thus, the foot forming the point of resistance, the body of the animal, at every stretch of the hind legs, is shot forward with a velocity proportioned to the amount of muscular action exerted in that process of extension.

The extent of this muscular action is, of course, governed by the natural conformation of the individual animal It being proved that the fore legs are merely pillars to support weight, and to receive and support the center of gravity, which is alternately advancing and receding with the motion of the animal, we must look to the more or less acute angles at which the levers of the hind quarters are inclined toward each other for the extent of contraction of which they are capable. Hence the practical eye ranges over the entire symmetry, from the point of the haunch to the articulation pastern, estimating the amount and the character of the power the horse is capable of exercising. The high haunch-bone and the lengthy thigh-bone with the upper leg bone will characterize the speed of the racer, the acute angle of the thigh-bone with the upper leg bone will denote the agile power that confers trotting action, while the requisite for slow draft will be the reverse of both, demanding not so much rapid and successive contraction as strong muscular effort to move shorter levers.—The Breeder.

Food for Poultry.

Much has been said by different writers concerning the proportion of food for poultry. Here is an account of the experience of a writer for a New York paper, which contains much that is sensible. The writer says: "There's another thing about poultry that I have learned from sad experience. There are many people who have an idea that if a little care and fussing is good for them, a great deal of care and fussing is much better, and so they spoil their chickens with too much attention. The first year I kept poultry I cooked all the food for the chicks and nearly wore my life out making Johnny-cake and mush and chopped food, and what you might call fancy dishes, to tempt their appetites. I got bravely over that, however, for I lost a few hundred chicks; and then I went to taking lessons of Mother Nature and the old hen. Now my chicks get a bit of chopped egg for the first meal or two, and egg and raw cornmeal with water for the second day. After that they are put on a steady diet of meal and water and they get nothing else until they are able to go out with the mother-hen, when she picks up and gives them whatever her most excellent judgement dictates. I am satisfied that she knows a great deal more about raising chickens than I do, and I give her her own way with the utmost deference and humility. I have noticed that she picks up bits of seed or grain, wets them slightly in her mouth and then gives them to the chicks. In absolute liberty and at the proper season of the year she finds an abundance of food for them; but in midwinter or in very early spring I simply provide her the raw material and let her manage it to suit herself. The result is that I have raised some entire broods of chickens without an accident or illness. I used to take whole broods in my apron and carry them into the kitchen and fuss with them by the half day, but almost all of them died, and I made up my mind that masterly inactivity on my part was the surest road to the successful bringing up of the youngsters in the poultry yard."

About a Peach Orchard.

Albert Jackson, of Michigan, says: To those contemplating setting out a peach orchard I would say, you want a pretty good bank account before you go into it. The next most important thing is to have the right location. If you have not the location, don't set to peaches. Now what is the best location? All things being equal the most elevated lands are the best. Many think the poorest part of the farm is best for peaches. It is not so good for peaches as better land, provided the better land is as well air drained. Cold air runs down hill like water, and peaches should only be set where the cold air can very readily drain away from them. He who plants an orchard without knowing what varieties he wants or without taking adequate means to insure getting chosen varieties, is as foolish as ever a tree peddler was dishonest. The way to decide on varieties is to talk with growers of and dealers in fruit. Then draw your own conclusions, but do not set too many varieties, or too many trees either. If one wants 5,000 trees, he better set only 1,000 a year for five years, so as to have new ones successively in their prime and different aged trees to meet severe winters, as at some ages they will be hardier than at others. Crops may be raised between the rows, but there is danger of barking the trees in caring for them. A good mulch is the best cultivation, and a crop of rye makes an excellent one. Sow as soon as the ground is bare, whatever the time of year, and plow under when grown enough. It also makes good pasture. Good cultivation pays. It is folly to try to raise peaches in sod.

Hardiness of Peaches.

Over 200 years ago the Spaniards introduced the peach tree into Texas and seedlings were raised from these continuously until a race has been produced which appears to be entirely free from all diseases which seem to be connected with trees raised in other sections. Seedlings from these old Spanish peaches raise plants which, side by side with the others, last a number of years, free from all disease, while those introduced from the north are short-lived and soon disappear. There is no doubt, from these facts, that whole races may become enervated from some peculiarity in the method of cultivation or from the conditions of the climate.—Mehans' Monthly for October.

Skunks and Moles Kill Grubs.

The other day some boys invaded my premises, heedless of the sign: "No Trespassing;" and before I was aware of the tragedy being enacted, succeeded, with their dog, in killing a poor little skunk. Then they ran away. Near by where the dead creature lay is a plot of ground in which I intended to plant strawberries, but found last summer that it was infested with white grubs. Digging in a sandbank I unearthed a sleek, handsome mole, as much to my surprise as his. I carried him gently to the spot the worms had colonized and laid him on the ground, into which he disappeared almost in an instant. Soon after a skunk jumped down into my cellar through a window, couldn't get out and was nearly starved when I found it. I liberated it with an understanding on one side at least, that it should go and help the mole. The pair—maybe assisted by others—have worked faithfully, and my ground is apparently free from grubs. Almost any summer morning I could see the fresh excavations made by the industrious skunk the night before in searching for the pests. I think the creature that did this useful work is the same whose life I saved and whose cruel death I here record. In view of its valuable service and inoffensive character, I can only exclaim: It is too bad!—S. B. Keach in the New York Tribune.

Grass Seeds for Lawns.

The Canadian Horticulturist gives the following good mixture for lawns, which has been used for the lawns in the Canadian department of agriculture under the direction of William Saunders "with great satisfaction." One bushel of red top, two bushels of June grass (Kentucky blue grass), and one quart of timothy to each acre of land, to be thoroughly mixed before sowing. Some esteem this a heavy seeding, but it is well known that a handsome lawn, dense and even like velvet, can be secured only with plenty of seed evenly distributed. Bare streaks and patches, from deficient seed, are not desirable. The best time of year is in early spring; but autumn sowing may be resorted to if the soil is rich and mellow and not exposed to strong winds, and with a thin top dressing of finely pulverized manure, and free from clods and lumps.—Country Gentleman.

Sending Flowers by Mail.

Cut them early in the morning, and let them stand in water for some hours before packing, so as to absorb moisture enough to prevent them withering, in which case they will not need to be sprinkled after they are in the box. Pack in a light wooden box, lined with cotton batting and covered with tissue paper. Lay the flowers not on top of each other, but in rows side by side, the blossoms of each row on the stems of their neighbors and as close as possible; cover with paper and cotton; see that the lid of the box is securely fastened; and remember to write on the corner "Cut flowers," as that will insure the package being carefully and quickly handled.—Harper's Young People.

A CHILD'S STRATEGEM.

The matter was settled yesterday.

The very mayor who married us eight years before pronounced us divorced, in the same room and before the same witnesses. My wife was accompanied by her father, her mother, and two friends, while my two old comrades, who had assisted at the tying of my pretty love-knot, came with saddened faces, to witness the severing of the bond.

A stiff bow, exchanged at the beginning and the end of the ceremony, was the only farewell between two beings who for years had never had a thought that was not shared. We sat on a bench, where five minutes before had been a smiling bridal pair, and I felt within me an agitation that was painful; there seemed to be a tension at my heart as if my whole being was about to be racked with torture. Was it possible that my companion and confidant, the woman who had consoled and encouraged me in all my trials, the woman I had loved so long and so dearly, could witness without regret, without a thought of the sweet past, the sundering of the bond that had united us?

My glance wandered round the room, from the ugy molding of the ceiling to the pictures on the wall, but suddenly it rested on a graceful head, with its soft, dark hair, which I had not seen for four months, and, through the meshes of my wife's veil, I saw two sparkling teardrops.

"She, too, remembers and regrets," I thought; "perhaps she could forgive."

Alas! if we two could but have been alone at that moment! But close beside her was the pale, stern face of her father and the determined one of her mother; those two had, from the very beginning of the trouble watched her jealously. I had tried every means to have an interview with Helen, but my letters had been intercepted, my messengers turned away, and our only meeting had been in the presence of a magistrate, an utter stranger, who, with the best intentions, had by his cold formality made matters even worse.

Since that day I have not entered my home. But now, on leaving the mayor's office, I went to the house to pack up my clothes. I knew that I could not live there alone among the memories of my vanished happiness, so I resolved to travel, and thus fly from all that could remind me of my wife and home.

A mutual friend arranged the details of the matter: I was to spend the night in the house, and the next morning Babette, my only child, would be allowed to come and breakfast with me. At 3 o'clock I was to leave; at 4 Helen would come to take away her belongings, and 24 hours later the house would be "To Let;" a party of workmen would come and put it in order for the next tenant, and then it would be left, empty and desolate, an image of my life.

I stopped in the midst of my packing to order a breakfast such as would please my little Babette. I held a consultation with Lucas, my old servant, and we chose those dishes that the child was fond of. I also put aside for her two little trinkets, a pretty porte bonheur and a locket containing my own likeness.

Poor little Babette! She was blessed with the happy ignorance of a child of 7, and yet she was precocious enough to understand in her own way that there was something serious the matter between "papa" and "mamma."

At 10 o'clock precisely she came accompanied by my mother-in-law's maid, who said she would return for madamoiselle at 2 in the afternoon.

Who can say where and how little girls acquire tact? They must be born with a germ of it, and, when developed, it makes them either women of the world, capable of reading one's secret thoughts, or the gentle, patient nurses for the sick and wounded. Babette asked me no questions, but kissed me rather gravely; sat on my knee before the fire, as was her custom, and, when I gave her the locket, pressed my likeness to her lips, then hung it around her neck, whispering:

"I will kiss it every morning and every night."

When we had finished breakfast, however, she said abruptly:

"Do you know mamma is coming here at 4 o'clock?"

"Yes, my dear" I answered

"Are you not going to wait and say good-by to her?" she asked, and after an instant's hesitation I said:

"I can not. I have to leave the house at 3; the train will not wait for me."

"Why can't you take another train?" she persisted.

"Because—because I have promised to go by that train, and I must not break my word, you know."

Then, forgetting her presence, I added half-aloud: "And yet, if I could but see her alone!"

Babette said nothing more, and while I continued my preparations for going away, she wandered all over the silent house collecting her playthings, coming back occasionally with a doll or a little box of treasures, and looking unusually serious.

Her behavior wounded my paternal love, for it seemed as if she were already indifferent to our approaching parting.

All too soon the servant came to take my darling from me; and I needed all my fortitude when we kissed each other for the last time. Never, never could we meet again in our home! The time dragged after she had gone, but at last the clock struck 3. Then I sent my servant for a carriage, and while he was gone I went into the bedroom and stood looking at a beautiful portrait of Helen, painted when she was a young girl. It belonged to her, so I could not take it with me. And as I gazed at it my tears burst forth, and I cried aloud, "Forgive me!"

A slight noise startled me, and turning round I saw Helen standing in the doorway, pale and agitated. In an instant I was on my knees before her, pressing her hand to my lips and murmuring:

"You have come an hour too soon—does this mean that you love me still?"

Trembling and tearful, she replied: "You have stayed an hour too long. Why have you come so—what is the use?"

Just then Babette danced into the room, and, clasping her arms around our necks, exclaimed delightedly:

"I did it, mamma—I put the clocks back, papa."

Of what avail are legal papers and magisterial pardons against the power of love? I went on the journey, but in company of Helen and Babette, my wife and child. Adapted from the French.

Colds Remarkably Prevalent—Will the Grip Return—Dangers of Pneumonia.

Have you noticed the unusual number of colds possessed by your acquaintances this year? There seems to be no particular reason why the fall of this year should be more trying than usual, but, nevertheless, it is a fact. Those who know something of these matters say that this extraordinary prevalence of colds is the forerunner of another visitation of the grip. Whether it may turn out so or not, a thing every one should do is to get rid of a cold as soon as possible on account of the danger to which a person with a "little cold" is exposed Pneumonia no one wishes to face, and it is no exaggeration to state that 8 per cent of deaths from this cause could have been averted if the cold out of which they grew had been cured.

By far the best method of ridding oneself of a cold is to take a little pure stimulant in water and keep warm after having done so. The greatest care and prompt measures should be taken at the slightest sign of the approach of pneumonia. If you have a tickling in the throat, tightness of the chest, pain in the head, a chilly feeling or pains throughout the body, immediately use some pure stimulant to promote the circulation and avert the catastrophe. It should be particularly borne in mind that to be of the required value the stimulant (whiskey preferably) must be pure, and Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, which can be obtained of your druggist or grocer, meets the requirements. It is standard and reliable and the fact that it has received the indorsements of the leading scientists and physicians of the present day is the best guarantee of its usefulness as a medicine Insist upon having it and do not allow the salesman to sell you a substitute which he may recommend as "just as good." There is no other medicinal whiskey which equals Duffy's Pure Malt in purity and excellence.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Current for Produce and Other Articles.

London wheat market very slow, very little doing; corn not much doing. Weather showery. Liverpool wheat quiet; corn firm.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 1,496,170 bus., compared with 714,814 bus. on the same day last year.

Shipments of wheat from India last week equaled 620,000 bus. Previous week 1,440,000 bus. From April 1, the commencement of the crop year, to Nov. 14, 40,398,000 bus., compared with 22,040,000 bus. in the corresponding period in 1890.

The imports into the United Kingdom for the week were 3,120,000 bu of wheat and 172,000 bbls of flour, equal to 3,894,000 bu of wheat, and 450,000 bu of corn.

The quantity of flour and wheat on ocean passage increased last week 2,496,000 bu. Corn increased 8,000 bu.

Our table herein of available wheat and corn shows an increase of 2,352,562 bu wheat, and a decrease of 1,014,263 bu corn.

The flour and wheat on passage to the united kingdom shows an increase of 3,014,000 bu, and to the continent a decrease 520,000 bu.

California Wheat Movement.

The receipts at San Francisco in the week ending November 11 equaled 623,285 bu of wheat and 19,193 bbls of flour.

New York Produce Exchange Weekly says: The wheat on passage from India October 27, estimated by Beerbohm at 4,640,000 bu, including 2,920,000 bu to the United Kingdom and 1,720,000 bu to the continent. One year ago the quantity afloat from India was 1,552,000 bu, comprising 1,216,000 bu for the United Kingdom and 616,000 bu for the continent.

Last mail advices say that seeding of wheat was progressing under favorable conditions, owing to late and ample rains in the largest districts, and as a result contracts have been made for exports of new crop, April-May delivery. Wheat and freights both dearer with the demand.

The receipts of wheat to-day at seven principal western points are 781,356 bu. in excess of the corresponding Tuesday in 1890. The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were 330,376 bu. of wheat and flour to an aggregate of 450,000 bu. Export of corn 26,300 bu.

English markets as reported herein opened dull and unchanged.

Winter Weather.

Our recollections of winter weather extend back a good many years, if not more. The winter of the Canadian rebellion, when the volunteers from this side crossed the lake on the ice, was a ripper. November 17, 1842, lake navigation closed with a gale of wind from the west and a snow storm, and did not again open until the following May. On the 4th of April of the following spring we crossed the Maumee river, on horseback, on the ice, on a trip to Cleveland. Nov. 17, 1880, lake navigation again closed, but the winter was not as severe as the others noted. To-day is the 17th of November and the weather is growing cold, and while what has happened may again occur, just at this writing we are expecting ten days of soft weather in this month.

California Shipments.

In our California extract herein, will be found the extraordinary statement, that there are ships enough in the harbor, and on passage thence, to carry all the surplus wheat of the state to market. Freight to England has declined nearly one pound sterling per ton.

The Markets.

The air is full of rumors to-day. Cables from Berlin says Russia has positively prohibited wheat exportation, and that market is quoted higher in consequence of it. True or false, English markets take no heed to it. Liverpool is quoted lower. As we have repeatedly said of late the Russian edict comes too late for positive immediate effect, as the winter will soon shut off a portion of that movement, edict or no edict. Another cable announces a shortage in the Australian wheat crop, but that will need confirmation also.

Foreign markets close without special feature. Liverpool weak and lower for wheat futures. The tone of some of the cables indicate the truth of the reported Russian edict.

Under the influences of the conflicting news of the day, and of the cold temperature, the wheat markets in this country have been firmer, and, with exception of one break, have maintained an advance of 1-4c to 1-2c over yesterday's closing. corn, as it will help to dry it and make it more fit for a market. The sale of the Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw has been confirmed, but on conditions that the purchasers, Gen. Rice, of Ottawa, and his associates, can meet the demand.

The papers were prepared here and have gone to Cleveland for signature. They will be returned this evening, and filed probably to-morrow.

The sale of the first division is confirmed, without conditions, and it passes into the hands of Mr. Brown, who acted as agent for the receiver.

The sale of the second division is conditional on the payment of $100,000 in 10 days from last Saturday and the balance within 30 days.

Gen. Rice's representative in court asked an extension of time to four or six months, but the court, it appears, is not disposed to give any extension, and the result will probably be that the central division will be readvertised for sale and probably resold.

At the time of the sale Gen. Rice, in behalf of himself and associates, deposited $15,000, and this will be forfeited unless the payments are met as demanded by the court.

It looks now as if the entire road would go into the hands of the reorganization committee.

OUR TWO SENATORS

Are Getting Down on Foraker's Side of the Fence.

Rorick and McConica Reported As Saying That John Sherman Has Had Enough of Official Pap.

Columbus, Nov. 17.—(Special)—Several of the non-committal and one Foraker member of the incoming legislature wandered into the city to-day and are having quite a tussel with the senatorial strikers. The non-committals are Senators McConica, of Findlay, and Rorick, of Wauseon, representing the Thirty-third district, composed of the counties of Fulton, Hancock, Henry, Lucas Putnam and Wood, and Representative McElroy, of Meigs.

While the two senators declined to express themselves as to their choice for United States senator, each has strong Foraker symptoms. This is a fact adduced from a pleasant conversation with the gentlemen this evening.

"I am satisfied," said Mr. Rorick, "that the prevailing sentiment in our section is for Foraker," and this was emphasized by Mr. McConica, who supplemented the declaration with the remark, "Yes, largely so."

Mr. McConica was unreserved in his statements in opposition to the idea there is a crying necessity for the return of Senator Sherman, closing his reference to this proposition with "I would like to know when a man will ever get enough."

SIX LIVES WERE LOST.

Fatal Fire in a Brooklyn Tenement House.

The Building Was Wood and Burned Like Tinder.

The Firemen Save a Number of People From Death in the Flames—A Scene of the Wildest Excitement.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Nov. 17.—At an early hour this morning a fire occurred in the four-story tenement house at 120 Nostrand avenue. The building was constructed mostly of wood and the flames spread to all portions of it with marvelous rapidity, cutting off the escape of those who lived in the upper floors.

Six persons are known to have perished, while many others were badly burned or had narrow escapes from death.

The dead as far as known are Mrs. Schnabel, her two children, and Mrs. Stellinberger and her two children.

The fire spread from No. 120 to adjoining buildings and destroyed 20 of them. At least 50 families were burned out and it is probable that other persons, besides those given above, have lost their lives.

There were scenes of wild excitement and panic during the progress of the flames. The inmates, aroused from their slumbers by the police and others who happened to be in the vicinity, rushed wildly from their homes in scanty attire.

Mothers would remember that some of their children were forgotten in the hasty exit and could only be prevented from rushing back into their burning homes by force.

The police and firemen worked like heroes and many daring rescues by them are recorded.

Mrs. Annie Bowers, aged 26, was carried in an unconscious condition from her apartments by a brave fireman who risked his life to save hers.

AMONG THE RAILROADS.

The Difficulty at the Wheeling Yards.

Demands Made by the Switchmen—Committee Appointed to Consult—News in General.

Everything is quiet in the Wheeling yards so far, and the work is moving along at a very fair rate.

Superintendent Woodford informed a Bee this morning that there were five crews at work in the yard in the daytime, but that they were not trying to work at night. None of the strikers have returned, and the sympathy is spreading all along the line, and the strike may become general, reaching into the trainmen and engine crews.

Superintendent Woodford this morning received a petition signed by yardmen, trainmen and enginemen, making the following demands:

All local freights to have four brakemen.

All through trains have three brakemen.

Brakemen to receive $2 for 10 hours' work and extra pay for overtime.

Firemen to have $2 for 10 hours' work and extra pay for over time.

Conductors to have $3.50 for 10 hours' work and extra pay for over time.

He also received word that a committee representing these employes would call on him to-day for a discussion of the situation. Mr. Woodford informed the Bee that he would be unable to grant a conference at present, as he has more business with the yard difficulty than he can attend to.

The Norwalk switchmen, consisting of a day and night crew, refuse to switch trains made up in the Toledo yards.

W. B. Thomas was arrested early this morning for violating the terms of the injunction. He was afterwards released by Marshal Wade on his own recognizance.

The Art of Paying Commissions.

The epidemic of commission payment seems to be breaking out again, and many lines as far as they dare, are pursuing privately a policy which the Chicago & Alton railroad has consistently carried out boldly and openly.

Several eastern lines, in Central Traffic and Trunk line territory, and some of which lines have boycotted the Alton for paying commissions, are now paying commissions themselves in the west, in Arkansas and Texas. The Wabash pays via its Niagara Falls short line. It evades the appearance of paying via its short line from St. Louis to Toledo by a very clever trick.

Its tickets are good either via its direct line or via Chicago and its Niagara Falls short line. It therefore has all commission accounts made out against the Niagara Falls short line, and it pays without regard to whether the business goes via that route or via the direct line from St. Louis to Toledo.

It seems to be satisfactory to the Board of Rulings if all lines will swear fealty with their lips, and disregard their oath in their acts.—Cincinnati Post.

In Session on the Quiet.

For some time the joint board of the Order of Railway Conductors of the Big Four system has been holding executive session at the Sherman house, Indianapolis. It is understood that grievances against the company are under discussion, and some surprising developments may be expected.

TWO DAYS AND A HALF

One Counsel Argues in the Union Manufacturing Case.

The Union Manufacturing case winds its weary way along before Referee Pratt, and the end is not yet. Attorney A. L. Smith occupied two days and a half with his argument, and yesterday noon Attorney Guy Kinney began his talk, and was right in the heart of it this afternoon.

Quite an array of big guns are yet to be heard from, and it is safe to say that Christmas will probably find the case unsettled.

CENTRAL AVENUE ROAD.

The Engineers Finally Make Their Report,

Showing Overpayment of Nearly One Thousand Dollars — The Amount Will Be Deducted From the Contractors.

At last County Commissioners Cooke and Englehardt have come to a conclusion, and Engineers Bodette and Wilhelm have produced the figures showing the shortage in the Central avenue stone road. This same result could have just as easily been arrived at three months ago and the county saved hundreds of dollars thereby. But election was drawing near, and no matter at what cost the true state of affairs should be withheld. No one knew what the result of such a settlement before election would have worked with Jacob Englehardt's campaign any more than the commissioner himself. The following is the statement as filed by sections:

	Cords paid for.	Cords found.	Ex-cess.	Prices paid.	Am't over-paid for.
11	..	$60.65	$52.87	$ 7.78	$20.
